FLYING FORTS BLAST TARGETS IN FAR NORTH

Norwegian Raids Follow RAF Night Attack on Nazi City of Ludwigshafen.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 18—American Liberator bombers ranged far over Norway again today, blasting at Hitler's far northern war industry only a few hours after a heavy RAF assault on the German chemical center of Ludwigshafen.

It was the second time in three days American bombers had blasted at the section of German war industry hitherto relatively free of aerial poundings.

A power station at Rkukan, about 80 miles west of Oslo, and a Molybdenum mine at Knasen were blasted Tuesday.

Targets Not Revealed

Today's targets were not identified immediately.

Last night's RAF attack on the German Rhineland city was carried out along with a raid on Berlin, hit by Mosquitos for the third time in seven days, and other attacks on unnamed targets in western Germany.

One bomber was lost during the night's operations, as compared with 12 heavy craft lost by the RAF the last time Ludwigshafen was raided Oct. 4.

The world's largest chemical works, operated by the I. G. Farben Trust, is situated at Ludwigshafen, where high explosives are made along with submarine parts, tanks, trucks and Diesel engines.

The assault was the first heavy attack on Germany since American Flying Fortresses blasted at Bremen Saturday.

Last night's secondary raid on Berlin was the 17th visit the RAF's twin-engined plywood bombers have paid the German capital since mid-August, but the first since Nov. 2.

First Raid Since Nov. 3

The big RAF bombers' last trip over Germany was the night of Nov. 3, when a record weight of 2,000 (long) tons of explosives was dropped on the big industrial city of Duesseldorf, making it probably the world's most heavily bombed city outside of Hamburg.

Last night's assault kept the two-way aerial offensive from Britain and the Mediterranean going full blast, and allied radio stations told the people of France to stay away from factories producing war materials for the Germans.

Speaking over the London radio in a broadcast beamed to Europe, a spokesman for the allied high command named 36 French cities and towns — including Paris— which he said would be made targets of mass blows by day or night in the near future.

War Summary

PACIFIC—Allied bombers step up attacks against Jap shipping and island bases.

RUSSIA—Facing a heavy counter-attack by 150,000 German troops Russians give first ground since start of offensive four months ago.

ISLAND BATTLES — Germans open air attack on Samos after Leros defense falls.

ITALY—U. S. aircraft attack Nazi airfields near Athens, Greece, as rain and floods again hamper ground actuon in Italian peninsula.

AIR WAR—U. S Fortresses again blast Nazi targets in Norway as followup to RAF raid on German chemical works in Ludwigshafen.

FLOODS AGAIN SLOW GROUND ACTION IN ITALY

U. S. Aircraft Attack Two German Airdromes in Area of Athens.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 18—American aircraft attacked two German airfields in the Athens area yesterday while heavy rains and flooding rivers reduced ground operations in Italy, it was announced today.

One of the sweeps across to Greece was made by American Flying Fortresses. They hit the Elevsis airfield in the third attack on that objective in as many days. At the same time Mitchell mediums bombed the Kalamaki airfield.

Despite adverse conditions, the Germans mounted several counterattacks on the eastern end of the Italian battle line but all were repulsed by the British Eighth army.

Rivers Overflow Banks

Many rivers near the front swept out of their banks.

Many small creeks, bridged only by temporary structures, were turned into torrents, and heavy rains effectively washed out traces of the thousands of mines planted in front of German positions.

Enemy preparations for a counterattack along the middle sector of the Sangro river front were smashed by the Eighth army artillery a mile northwest of Atessa near the villages of Archin and Perano.

From the entire Fifth army front only intermittent fire was reported.

Fighter-bombers and fighters carried out offensive patrols along the battle front despite adverse weather and light bombers hit industrial targets at Piombino on the west coast opposite Elba. Explosions were seen among the blast furnaces and coke ovens of the town's industrial district.

Germans Concentrate Against Fifth Army

By The Associated Press

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 18—Determined to hold their Garigliano river line all winter if possible the Germans have concentrated the bulk of their defensive strength along the Fifth army front in a desperate bid to halt the allied advance on Rome.

This strategy became increasingly clear today as Americas and British patrols probed the enemy's so-called winter line—a deep series of pill-boxes, gun replacements, trenches and barbed wire entanglements blasted out of the rocky mountains.

For the first time since allied troops fought their way ashore at Salerno the Germans have fallen back while they fortified six positions — and no one has any illusions about the bitter, bloody battles that must be fought before the enemy is dug out of the hills.

The valley running from Cassino to Rome is the natural road for the army to follow.

And because it is the natural avenue to Rome the Germans have thrown up their heaviest defenses and massed the greater part of their troops in the vicinity, with the Apennines on their left flank as a guard against the British Eighth army.

SOVIETS LOSE FIRST GROUND IN 4 MONTHS

Germans Throw 150,000 Men Into Counter-Attack in Zhitomir Sector.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 18—Confronted with stiff counter-attacks, adverse weather conditions and difficult terrain, the Red army has given up ground in the Ukraine for the first time since it began its successful offensive four months ago.

The withdrawal was executed yesterday in the Zhitomir-Korostyshev sector at the tip of the Red army's salient west of Kiev, and came on the eve of the first anniversary of the launching of the great Soviet counter-offensive at Stalingrad Nov. 18, 1942.

The retreat followed a series of heavy Nazi counter-attacks southeast of Zhitomir and in the Fastov sector, in which masses of tanks and infantry were used in an attempt to slice off the bulge in the Soviet front. A Russian communique said the drive cost the Germans 1,500 casualties and 80 tanks and troop carriers.

Nazis Use 150,000 Troops

(Advices from London said the Germans were reported to have thrown at least 150,000 troops into the Zhitomir counter assault.)

The depth of the withdrawal was not given in the Russian communique.

Moscow military observers, however, believed the withdrawal was not not on a large scale.

They explained that a light, mobile column of tanks and motorized infantry had led the Russian drive through Korostyshev and Zhitomir and that the bulk of the Red army forces was not able to maintain the pace.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army, which carried out the retreat, has been one of the fastest moving Russian units in the present offensive.

While the tip and left flank of the Kiev salient sagged slightly under the enemy pressure, other Red army forces pushed forward on the right flank toward the strategic rail junction city of Korosten to the north.

Russians Capture Town

The Russians captured the towns of Narodichi, 28 miles northeast of Korosten, and Chernobil, 50 miles east of Narodichi near the junction of the Pripet and Dnieper rivers. The German garrison in Korosten was thus threatened from the south, east and north but fought stubbornly to hold that valuable communications and supply center, dispatches said.

The width of the Kiev bridgehead, however, left the Red army with ample space to adjust its positions and to strike out anew from internal lines against scattered German opposition.

On the lower White Russian front to the north, Soviet columns were fighting their way through the suburbs of Rechitsa, on the west bank of the Dnieper, the communique said, and had gained ground on the east bank north of Gomel. A new Soviet drive was also reported under way near Orsha, Dnieper river city 70 miles southwest of Smolensk, and junction point for the Leningrad-Odessa, Moscow-Warsaw railway lines.

Turks Reported Moving Toward War with Axis

By The Associated Press

ANKARA, TURKEY, Nov. 17—(Delayed)—Turkey is moving toward war with the axis.

Turkey's sub rosa assistance to allied armed forces, which closely approximates that which the United States gave Britain in the months before Pearl Harbor, is rapidly carrying the nation toward a war footing.

Details of the help which already is being given naturally cannot be disclosed, but the correspondent is convinced what was only friendly neutrality a few months ago is rapidly approaching genuine cooperation.

That this cooperation may grow into Turkish participation in the war on an all-out scale is recognized by the Turkish government, which is making its plans for that eventuality.

Nazis Switch from Leros To Attack on Samos Island

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 18—The Germans, quickly switching their attack from Leros, have begun an aerial assault on Samos, last of the Aegean islands in allied hands, the Berlin radio announced today.

The broadcast said German bombers and dive-bombers dropped bombs of all calibers on military targets on Samos, a Greek island less than 20 miles north of Leros, which capitulated Tuesday.

London morning newspapers sharply criticized the loss of Leros, with the Herald urging a full official explanation.

"We shall gain nothing by glossing it over," said the Herald.

All the editorials were filled with questions and stressed that the fall of the island to German attacking forces, announced yesterday, constituted a political set-

Ohioans In Congress Indorse Governor's Candidacy for President.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18—The Bricker-for-president campaign opened in Washington last night when 20 Ohio Republican members of the house pledged active support of Gov. Bricker for the presidential nomination.

Today he is expected to get the indorsement of his party's state central and executive committees at a meeting here, virtually assuring him the votes of the Ohio delegation at the national convention.

Unverified reports say Wendell L. Willkie may compete for the Ohio delegation.

Senators Robert A. Taft and Harold H. Burton did not attend the Washington meeting but both previously had indorsed Bricker's candidacy.

Jenkins Chairman

Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton was chairman of the meeting which adopted a resolution reading:

"Each and every member of the Republican delegation from Ohio in congress dedicates himself or herself to render unswerving devotion to this cause and to exert to the utmost every reasonable and honorable effort to bring about the nomination of Governor Bricker for the presidency by the Republican national convention and thereafter to exert every reasonable effort to elect him president of the United States."

The preamble said the people have firmly resolved to reclaim and establish government on a safe and sound foundation. "The Republican party will do it. The New Deal is dead."

Bricker's administration was praised and he, personally, was called "one of the ablest and most capable chief executives in the nation because he has rendered

SAYS PARLEY REMOVED MANY WAR CAUSES

Secretary Is First Cabinet Members To Appear Before Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—Secretary of State Hull, first cabinet member ever to address congress, declared today before a joint session of both houses "we can and will remain masters of our own fate" through cooperation with other nations likewise intent upon security.

The decisions made at the Moscow conference, from which he returned a national hero, point the way, he said, to a world freed of "spheres of influence for alliances, for balance of power or any other of the special arrangements through which, in the unhappy past, the nations strove to safeguard their security or to promote their interests."

"We of today," said the white-haired 72-year-old Hull, "shall be judged in the future by the manner in which we meet the unprecedented responsibilities that rest upon us—not alone in winning the war, but also in making certain that the opportunities of future peace and security shall not be lost.

Congratulates Lawmakers

"As an American, I am proud of the breath and height of vision and statesmanship which have moved you, ladies and gentlemen, in each house of the congress to adopt, by overwhelming non-partisan majorities, resolutions in favor of our country's participation with other sovereign nations in an effective system of international cooperation for the maintenance of peace and security."

He said the United Nations are on the offensive and "our enemies are suffering defeat after defeat."

But victory, he added, will be hastened only as all the United Nations continue to press their advantage without the slightest relaxation or deviation.

Hull said he went to Moscow by direction of President Roosevelt to discuss basic international problems in the light of principles to which this country has come to give widespread adherence.

"It has never been my fortune to attend an international conference at which there was greater determination on the part of all the participants to move forward in a spirit of mutual understanding and confidence."

Sees War Shortened

He said the Moscow conference is believed to have been an important step in the direction both of shortening the war and of making provision for the future."

It is increasingly clear, he continued, that the time is nearing when more and more territory held by the enemy will be wrested from his grasp, "and when Germany and its remaining satellites will have to go the way of fascist Italy."

The secretary of state said the Moscow discussions were concerned with many of the new problems which would arise out of such developments.

No Secret Agreements

"Important agreements were reached but there were no secret agreements, and none was suggested."

He said the conference concentrated on the task of making sure the nations winning the war will, along with other peacefully minded nations, "continue to perform their full part in solving the numerous and vexatious problems of the future."

"From the outset, he said, "the dominant thought at the conference was that, after the attainment of victory, cooperation among peace loving nations in support of certain paramount interests will be almost as compelling in importance and necessity as it is today in support of the war effort."

At the end of the war, the united and associated nations will have the same common interest, Hull said, "in national security, in world order under law, in peace, in the full promotion of the political, economic and social welfare of their respective peoples—in the principles and spirit of the At-

Workers Must Back Fighters, C. of C. Banquet Speaker Says

War Far from Won, Industrialist Tells Marion Audience of 400; Assails Those Who Seek Profit from Emergency.

Warning that the war against the axis is a long way from being won, that the fighting for the allies, at least, has only started, Ralph W. Carney of Wichita, Kan., principal speaker at last night's twenty-eighth annual Marion Chamber of Commerce dinner, urged Americans to continue at top speed their work for victory.

Speaking before an audience of 400 members of the Chamber of Commerce, their wives and friends, in the Scioto Ordnance Plant cafeteria, Mr. Carney reviewed allied successes in North Africa and in Europe in explaining that an allied victory is not as near at hand as high-ranking Americans are claiming.

"Since the first landings at Salerno our advance in Italy has averaged only about a mile each day. But against our greatest enemy, Japan, the advance has been less. Since Pearl Harbor the Japs have taken 1,366,000 square miles of allied territory and in the nearly two years in which we have been on the defensive we have recaptured only 600 square miles of territory," Mr. Carney said.

"It is time for the American people to realize that even after Germany is out of this war we may find 75,000,000 Japs who can place 11,000,000 soldiers into the field.

Must "Work and Fight"

"It is now certain that the defeat of that enemy can be brought about only if we are willing to work and fight as hard as he and do without with as much fortitude. It is time for us to know that this isn't a war to be fought by our armies, navies and air fleets, but a war fought by civilians as well.

"Our country has been at war for 23 months and yet many millions of Americans have not yet gone to war, themselves. Oh, sure, they read the headlines in the papers, where, because we are in a worldwide war and something good happens somewhere every day and, it's got to be good now because it was disastrous so long, it's played up in headlines until we no longer properly evaluate the gains made in relationship to the total job done. But our cities haven't yet been bombed and our countryside hasn't been laid waste. We haven't yet dragged the bodies of American women and babies out of the debris of destroyed buildings. We haven't yet sustained any of the agony of war—not unless you have already suffered the loss of a son.

Too Many After Profit

"And another reason I know this war isn't real to millions of

Final Drive for Goal Opened by War Chest Campaign Heads

Divisional leaders of the Marion War Chest drive met this morning with Chairman Robert E. White to discuss plans for making a final "scrape the barrel" effort to reach the county's $112,275.49 budget by Tuesday night, when final reports will be turned in at a dinner meeting in the Masonic temple.

Drive leaders announced that an effort is being made to contact every home in Marion county which has not as yet been reached by war chest workers in the hope that the county quota can be reached, and if possible exceeded.

At this morning's meeting a number of drive heads took it upon themselves personally to contact various groups, especially in the rural area, in an attempt to reach the goal in the biggest fund-raising drive in the history of Marion county.

Some Increase Gifts

Ralph W. Carney of Wichita, Kan., principal speaker last night at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, stressed the importance of the success of the United War Chest campaign in his talk before 400 members of the chamber, their wives, and guests. Following his address a number of persons who felt they possibly had not contributed their share to the drive contacted war chest representatives present at the meeting and boosted their subscription considerably, drive heads reported this morning.

A Soldier Gives

Likewise, the drive was stimulated considerably yesterday when a Marion youth, a staff sergeant home on leave from duty in the U. S. Army, contributed $5 to the drive. In making the donation he told War Chest representatives, "I know that this $5 will do a lot of good. Not only will it help to relieve the distressed peoples of war-ravaged Europe but it will also help to do a tremendous job right here at home." He said the USO, which is the biggest single recipient in the nationwide drive this year, is doing a miraculous job in providing recreation and entertain-

Whole Battle Over Inflation Blown Wide Open on Capitol Hill.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—The row over food subsidies blew the whole question of inflation wide open on Capitol Hill today.

The situation is this:

1—The house and senate agriculture committees ended up three days of hearings on anti-subsidy legislation with several members predicting passage of the bill.

2—Senators Thomas (D-Okla) and Bushfield (R-SD), members of the agriculture committee, both said they felt senate passage of the anti-subsidy legislation was likely by an "overwhelming" vote, although they were doubtful the subsidy foes had sufficient strength to override a presidential veto.

Despite the row, the administration went ahead with a $9,000,000-a-month subsidy of millers to hold down the price of bread.

Families Getting Food Gifts Must Give Points

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18—Any needy family receiving a basket of food at Christmas must surrender coupons for rationed items, Charles Schreiber, office of price administration's regional rationing executive, said today.

"We suggest that any group expecting to distribute baskets give the family an order for the rationed item at a convenient store, let it pick up the item at which time the family would surrender ration points," the OPA executive for Ohio and the four neighboring states explained. "This simplifies the matter of points and abides by OPA regulations of surrendering points for rationed goods."

Holiday Liquor Supplies To Improve in Ohio

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18—Ohio liquor stores probably will have more spirits to sell during the holiday season than in previous months but paradoxically it will be harder for thirsty patrons to obtain.

Liquor Director Don Fisher today explained:

Liquor shipments into Ohio this month are expected to exceed the 200,000 case average of previous months, some of which probably will be for sale during the December ration period, in addition to receipts that month.

However, the number of liquor store patrons is expected to increase from the previous average of 60 per cent of the 2,250,000 ration registrants to 90 per cent.

Counting the quart, fifth or two-pint ration of distilled spirits as a single unit, it was estimated demands next month would swell from 1,350,000 to 2,025,000 units, or an increase of approximately 80,000 cases—more than the state expects to be able to obtain.

DRAFT OF FATHERS TO HIT OHIO SCHOOLS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18—Reporting that schools short 800 teachers, a state education official predicted today some schools would be forced to close if teachers who were pre-Pearl Harbor fathers were drafted into the armed forces.

Harold J. Bowers, superintendent of certification, said schools could lose 1,918 more men including 201 local school heads by the draft.

"Should these pre-Pearl Harbor fathers go, and I see no chance to lose personnel at the present rate, it is inevitable that some schools would have to be closed," he declared.

"We've taken every available qualified person," Bowers said "and have added 3,500 teachers with temporary certificates."

Bowers said the greatest drain was to the armed forces, followed by industry and business, which he said were able and can afford to pay much higher salaries than those offered by the boards of education. Another loss is in wives of Army and Navy personnel, who follow their husbands to training camps.

Steelworker Union Wants Open Hearths Reopened

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 18—The CIO United Steelworkers union local at Republic Steel Corp.'s plant today opposed shutdown of four of nine open hearth furnaces and asked the government to place them back into operation "producing their share of needed carbon steels, regardless of loss of profit."

In telegrams to war production board chairman Donald Nelson and U. S. Sen. James Truman, head of a committee investigating the war effort, the plant union said employes "were sadly disillusioned to learn that Republic Steel's interest in war production is motivated only from a standpoint of profits as usual."

"There is no truth in the union statements," asserted a company spokesman who declined use of his name. "The steel situation is such today that open hearths are being shut down all over the country. The government already has more steel than it has any use for."

Three One-Armed Bandits Net $5,000 Monthly in North Africa

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Correspondent

INTER-THEATER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA—Have you heard the story of the three one-armed bandits? Well, they're in business—three mechanical slot machines which still rob everyone who comes their way, but also pay back to the guys in uniform.

The "bandits" are three slot machines taken back in 1942 when the pockets of a group of men in Waycross, Ga., were being conditioned before overseas service command. There were so many slot machines in the fun spots of Waycross that officers decided they became a threat to the morale of the soldier guests. So they ordered the sheriff to see that the machines were confiscated and taken out of circulation.

Shortly afterward the sheriff received a visitor—an officer. His request was eloquent, for soldiers' one dime and one slot machines were doing business in the interests of the nation's army.

Instead of having the pockets of the club owners, however, the money went into a special fund for the soldiers. Within a short time the machines had purchased a washing machine, an electric iron and many other conveniences not considered basic army equipment.

Then the men were sent overseas to North Africa. Along with them went the three slot machines, packed in innocent-looking crates. For weeks they provided entertainment for the troops and profits for the organizational fund, but when the Germans made their break through at Kasserine pass the service command unit was called upon to move hurriedly and the coin machines were left behind with another outfit.

Now they have turned up in the officers' club of a unit training fighter pilots.

Mess officer of the unit is Lt. James Cooper of Birmingham, Ala., who once was a high school football star and who surrounds pilots in his outfit with one of the most ornate clubs in the North African theater.

The three hard-working little slot machines have paid for it all—the cost was $1,200, the price of the plush leather chairs, deep rugs, mahogany bar and even the card table. They also have completely met the needs of mess fees for the officers and help buy many "little extras" for the enlisted men.

$130 a Day

The take from the three machines is approximately $150 a day and the monthly net is close to $5,000. All of it goes for those little extras that make the difference between "rugged" and "very satisfied" soldiers.

"Shucks," said Mess Sergt. Andrew Ahlstrom of Long Lake, Mich., "we locate our pilots with a set so mad playing them they'd gladly go out and shoot Germans."

Three men were playing the machines at the moment. Lt. Col. Charles Jones of Jackson, Miss., had just drawn two cherries and a lemon, which were worth 30 cents.

"My good fortune," he said, "is attributed to skill—specifically to the use of a highly developed right shoulder nudge."

At the middle machine Major Jean Bellaire, commanding of some French troops stationed nearby, was tossing chips into the slot and chattering with such seriousness each time he failed to get a return on his investment.

"Pas bon," he exclaimed to an American Arab.

At the third machine Capt. Herb Myers watched intently as the cylinders spun. Finally he threw up his hands in despair.

"That makes $8 that bandit machine has taken from me today," he groaned. "Fate, that's it. Fate. What cruel fate has done this to me."

Lt. Cooper grinned.

"Capt. Myers," he explained, "comes from Waycross, Ga."

Harding Shop Course Leads To Factory Jobs for Students

By MARY HERRING

"Satisfaction guaranteed" could be a fitting promise given to students who take vocational training at Harding High school. Very little of the uncertainty that is experienced by other students who have not received training from other sources is apparent in the vocational student. His training has been outlined with a definite purpose ahead and that goal is almost always accomplished.

When vocational students are trained at the school shop they are prepared for their particular type of work and when they enter a shop as workers, past records show that the students can hold their own with skilled workers.

Each year a number of students are placed in shops and factories where they work part time during their last two years of high school. Sophomore students are obliged to stay in the school shop because they are too young for industrial work. Only students who are adaptable to all surroundings and those who maintain a high average in their scholastic work are permitted to leave the classroom and be placed as a "co-op."

How Plan Works

L. H. Ricker, coordinator of the vocational course, contacts personnel directors of the various industries and places a number of students in the plants with the co-operation of the respective firms. Regular reports on the co-op are given to Mr. Ricker and a record of each student's progress and conduct is kept. The young men are paid an hourly wage and it has been found that after the strangeness of a slightly different work is overcome, they are able to work capably and with speed side by side with veterans.

This year Mr. Ricker has placed 17 seniors and 41 juniors. All of the senior students are working and only 11 juniors are still to be placed. Seventy-seven sophomore students started the training this fall and although they are under the age limit and therefore cannot be placed in a shop most of the boys are working in other jobs after school.

Members of the faculty of the vocational department are: Mr. Ricker, Frank Stanley and Floyd Saine. R. A. Todd and J. F. Petrich are instructors for machine drawing and Miss Margaret Watrous teaches mathematics and science.

Well-Equipped Shop

A visitor to the vocational building can readily understand why the students are so well prepared to step into vital factory work. The pattern and foundry shop is 24 feet by 50, the welding shop, 17 by 50 feet. Neither of these are in use at present. The remainder of the downstairs is one large space with the machine shop equipment in the east end and the automotive repair section occupying the opposite end of the building. Upstairs is the drawing room and a smaller class room. A small alcove is located just off the steps before reaching the second floor and it is here that the blueprint machine has been installed. Each student makes his own drawing, places it in a machine, located in a corner of the drawing room, where a black and white copy is made. Later this copy is placed in the blueprint machine where the finished print is made.

The new vocational building was built and opened April 16, 1942. Equipment for the machine shop is valued at approximately $75,000 and includes the following: 12 lathes, three milling machines, three shapers, one cylindrical grinder, one hydraulic surface grinder, one radial drill press, four other drill presses, one screw machine, one cutter and reamer grinder, two tool grinders, one hardening and tempering furnace, power hack saw and tools for all machines in the shop. A large tool crib is built at the center of one

"MY CONSTIPATION WORRIES ARE OVER!"

Since I've been eating ALL-BRAN regularly!"

Tired of taking one purgative after another, and getting no lasting relief? Then by all means, read this unsolicited letter:

"Good for you, because your ALL-BRAN was so good for me. I had to take so many medicines most of the time, before I started eating ALL-BRAN. Now, I have no more of that kind of trouble. I have been eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly every morning for about 5 years. It is wonderful." — Mrs. Susie Perry, 93 Bigelow St., Greenfield, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Why does KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN give such welcome relief? Scientists say it's because ALL-BRAN "gets at" one common cause of constipation — lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet! Nature made KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN one of her most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora lighten and fluff up the colonic wastes, for easy elimination. It's not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It is simply a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If this is your trouble, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, with milk, sprinkled on other cereals, in muffins, etc. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't cheer its comforting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

One letter was recently received from [illegible] Mr. Ricker announced equipment needed for the servicing and repairing of all types of motor vehicles. Cars needing repairs are brought into the shop, parts are furnished by the owner and the work is done without charge. Cars belonging to members of the faculty and relatives of the students provide the boys with enough work to keep them busy during the work period.

From this course, three seniors and 14 sophomores have been learning not only practical application but the related work in the trades including automotive science and automotive mathematics. Some of the students are working at the Omar Bakery, Burly Garage, Young's Service Station and Hunter on a cooperative basis.

Easiest Language? Japanese!

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Features Writer

NORMAN, Okla. — If a man from another planet suddenly landed on earth and had to be taught a language, he probably could learn Japanese easier than anything else, says Howard Van Zant, language expert of the University of Oklahoma.

It is because the Japanese language is based more upon symbolism than any other language, he explains. In addition the Japanese language and the philosophy of that country are one, he says.

For instance, the symbol for 'gate' is a double rectangle." explains Van Zant. "That for the word resembles a square capital 'H' with two cross marks instead of one.

"Now put together these two words to mean to the Japanese a 'hurrah' (hakari) tomorrow (myo). The reason for this double meaning is that the Japanese says 'Today is not bright. But tomorrow, when I am dead, it will be better.'

"There is a flag-like symbol, which is an abbreviated door to a barn, with a small handle on top, which means door (to). Leave off the handle by which the door is opened and the word is death. Put two doors facing each other and the word is gate. A gate with the sun below it means an interval of time because the time in which the sun shines through a crack in a gate is brief.

"Banzai, their word for our 'hurrah,' literally means 10,000 years of felicity. Kimono is really two words, ki, which means wear, and mona, which means thing. Ginrikisha is made up of three words, gin, which means man, riki, which means vehicle, and sha, which means power.

"Words are unaccented. The sentence order is subject, object and verb and there is no gender, no plural and only four irregular verbs. They avoid pronouns."

Restrictions Lifted On Farmer Pork Sales

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — In an effort to slow current heavy marketing of hogs, the war food administration yesterday lifted for 90 days the restrictions on the number of pounds of home-slaughter pork and lard that may be sold or given to persons not living on the farmer's property.

While there has never been a restriction on farm slaughter of hogs, the government had limited the amount of pork and lard that could be delivered by a farmer to others living off his farm.

"The restrictions on delivery of farm-slaughtered pork and lard were removed in order to open another channel for disposal of the largest hog crop ever known in the United States," WFA said.

WFA also renewed its warning that farmers should find out from marketing agencies or processors whether hogs can be handled before sending them to market.

NATURALIZATION EXAMINER TO BE HERE NEXT WEEK

Over 35 Applicants Expected for Tests.

Between 35 and 40 persons desirous of becoming citizens of the United States will appear before Elbert J. Scantland, acting naturalization examiner, next Tuesday, at the Marion county courthouse. The day's schedule, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock, will include examinations for citizenship, interviews and filing of petitions.

Just how many persons will receive final citizenship papers is not known. A number of petitions will be filed, and appointments also have been set for the examiner to discuss filing of the initial papers. As on former occasions, when there has been a group of persons receiving naturalization papers, the Marion County Bar association will sponsor a program in which the new citizens will be given recognition. Arrangements for the program are in charge of James Reed, county prosecutor. Mr. Scantland will come to Marion from the Columbus office.

FORTRESSES DESTROY 1,348 PLANES IN YEAR

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 17—U. S. Flying Fortresses in their first year of operations in the North African theater destroyed or damaged 1,348 enemy planes, and dropped 26,101 tons of bombs on enemy targets in Tunisia, Libya, Sicily, Sardinia, Pantelleria, Italy, France, Germany and Greece.

An official announcement yesterday said 87 Fortresses were lost from all causes, and the losses amounted to only 67 100ths of one per cent of total sorties.

The big planes, operating under command of Brig. Gen. J. H. Atkinson of Dalhart, Tex., were credited with shooting down 775 enemy planes, probably destroying 294, and damaging 278 more since they made their first bombing raid from a North African base Nov. 16, 1942.

Statistics compiled by Lt. Herman W. Bandel, Portage, Mont., statistical officer at bombing headquarters, disclosed that one veteran Fortress group in 117 missions had flown a total mileage equivalent to 65 trips around the world.

Ration Tokens To Be Blue and Red

The new plastic tokens, to be put into use early in 1944 to make the purchasing and selling of rationed foods more convenient for the consumer and merchants, will be blue and red, slightly larger than a nickel and will be inscribed to designate the foods for which they are good, OPA officials at Columbus announced today. They will be used as change for processed foods and meat-fat stamps.

The tokens will be one-third of an inch thick, so that they cannot be used in coin operated machines. The blue tokens will bear 13 and lettering "Office of Price Administration, Processed Foods." The red ones will be lettered, "Office of Price Administration, Meats, Fats, Fish and Cheese." The edges will be flat with no milling. They will be made of plastic or glass.

By use of the token system, it is expected that non-essential buying to make use of ration points just before they become invalid will be curtailed and that they will contribute to the smoother operation of rationing.

Call for More WACS

ONE of the country's important war service recruiting campaigns of 1943 is now under way. It has for its objective enlistment of 70,000 new members for the Women's Army Corps, and Marion, as the central point of a WAC recruiting area of eight counties, is the scene of vigorous efforts to help Ohio reach its quota. The campaign started Sept. 27 and will reach its close Dec. 7.

Although nationwide in scope, the enlistment movement is on a statewide basis, with each state assigned a quota of recruits. Volunteers making up each state company will receive their basic training together, each company will carry its own state flag to the training camp and each volunteer will wear her state's special insignia. So there will be special distinction for those who enlist in this campaign, especially if their particular state has registered an outstanding response to the call for enlistments. Likewise each community represented by volunteers will have reason to point with pride to its part in the campaign.

In this recruiting drive, those in charge emphasize six "selling points" which the Women's Army Corps has to offer intelligent, healthy, young American women. The first is: "Will you help your country in an important way? Do you want to do all you can to speed victory? Do you want to help in a really vital way to bring our soldiers home SOONER?. If you do, then you've got the first thing it takes to be a WAC."

When the proposal to enlist women as organized, full-time service units in the military establishment was first suggested, there were some expressions of doubt and disapproval. That was to be expected, for no innovation of national scope is ever proposed without eliciting some dissent. But any such adverse feeling toward the WAC and other women's branches of the military services was soon dissipated. All have proved their value in more than full measure, so much so that there is continual call for increased enrollment. The current WAC campaign, the most extensive yet conducted, is the latest evidence of high appraisal. And then there is this testimonial from General Marshall:

"Commanders to whom the WACS have been assigned have spoken in the highest terms of their efficiency and value—in 155 different Army jobs. The best evidence in the matter is the demands now being made on the War Department for increased allotments of WAC organizations, which total hundreds of thousands."

Winter War

WINTER now is well advanced in Russia, with no abatement of the amazing drive that may be expected to reach Rumania and Poland within the next two weeks.

In Italy, the progress up the peninsula toward Rome, lying in the latitude of New York City, is being slowed by the same conditions prevailing here, but there is no indication of any letup in total effort.

Allied bombers roar eastward over the channel from England day after day, occasionally grounded by impossible flying weather but more occasionally penetrating the bad weather to deliver their bombs to Germany on schedule.

Fresh action has broken out in the Dodecanese islands, and there remains the expectancy of major action somewhere on Germany's still quiet western front. It has been a long time since winter brought a breathing spell to the fighters in Europe's endless wars. All that winter means now is extra clothing and one more hazard added to the hazards of battle.

Ability To Pay

REALIZATION of the significance of lend-lease is overdue. That is what the current argument is about—suddenly, a great light is dawning.

The revelation will be good for everybody concerned, if they can stand the initial shock of realizing that war has forced them to pool their resources for collective security. A Briton has spoken of lend-lease as an ability-to-pay arrangement, whereby each contributes as he is able according to the collective need. Donald Nelson, our own war production chief, has explained that he was misunderstood a few days ago when he said Russia would pay back the United States for what it obtained under lend-lease; he meant to say Russia intended to pay back what it obtained after the end of the war. Official reports showing British lend-lease to the United States stood in a monetary ratio of about one to seven to our aid to Britain last June 30 have been added to the record. Also added is an official opinion by this government that the monetary ratio does not tell the whole story; this country has obtained vital aid from Britain in the war which cannot be assigned money value. Obviously, the same thing is true of our other allies. No money value can be assigned the performance of the Russian army, or the way British civilians withstood the act of blitz—just as Russians and Britons cannot evaluate the intangible aid they received.

The cost of war, especially worldwide war, cannot be set up in a double entry bookkeeping system and rationalized. The Allies discovered that after 1918. In lend-lease they are going to discover it again. The awakening is overdue, but it is coming.

News Behind the News

Roosevelt Expected To Run Again, Especially If Crowley Becomes Democratic Chairman.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—Democratic National Chairman Frank Walker may be replaced sometime soon by Leo Crowley, the President's receiver in bankruptcy for declining politics.

Mr. Crowley has a purple reputation only as a banker, but he has handled as much politics for Mr. Roosevelt as any other one, being regarded in the administration, since the inauguration of the New Deal, as the Democratic maestro of Wisconsin and Minnesota, if not some adjoining states.

If you see Mr. Crowley come into the Democratic management, you will know Mr. Roosevelt is going to make a race for it next year again, despite all current political portents and the sub-rosa information passed through the Democratic side of the senate that he will not make up his mind until May 1.

Offhand, you would figure that Mr. Roosevelt would run only if he thought he would win without a nationally disunifying struggle, and if a majority were certain.

How Democrats Figure

Most Democratic politicians figure it another way. They say there is no other Democratic leader acceptable to the New Deal element, and also no one acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Wallace was groomed and has kept the administration hearth for left-wingers burning, but not brightly. He would be a weak candidate. Ex-Justice Jimmy Byrnes would not suit the leftists. No one else has been allowed to grow up to mention.

Some southern newspapers, in editorials not nationally noticed, have been asking:

What about Byrd?

Also, a Democratic senator, who made a political announcement about two weeks ago, received from the midwest a lot of mail asking the same question.

Force Against Wallace

There is this about him:

A half spontaneous, half organized (locally) movement is rising in his behalf. He is the natural candidate of the south, may well become a sort of favorite son of several southern states and thus become a bulwark against the Wallace element in the party at the next convention, if the leftists try to put over the V. P.

Furthermore, he would be acceptable to many a national Republican leader as a vice presidential candidate, though he could not, in the present booming state of Republican affairs, become a coalition candidate for first place. He could probably beat Wallace in a Democratic convention, even packed with officeholders, but not Mr. Roosevelt.

The elevated public mention of Chief of Staff General Marshall has no political backing (his popular backing is not yet measured). But Marshall would not be acceptable to the New Deal element. He is Army, has never participated in the socializing business, or in politics.

Points Toward Roosevelt

All this adds up to the New Deal loyalists pressing Mr. Roosevelt into a fourth term nomination, even if prospects of his election are not good. One other consideration substantiates this reasoning.

The only alternative would be Mr. Roosevelt's engineering Britain and Russia to head the promised "international organization" to direct world affairs, but with Dewey, or anyone not of Roosevelt choosing in the White House, the job would not be powerful. Stalin and Churchill would run to the White House where policies would be made, not to Mr. Roosevelt. From his standpoint, therefore, it may be preferable to seek reelection, first, anyway.

Dewey Likely Nominee

Mr. Willkie said in Wisconsin that Governor Dewey could not run because he promised. This is true, yet practically all the ranking men of politics in both parties in the east currently consider Dewey as almost a certain nominee.

Their reasoning is not hard to follow. Ohio's Governor Bricker is now officially out seeking delegates, as predicted. The favorite son movement (of which Mr. Willkie also complained) is spreading through the west from the eastern Republican centers previously cited in this column. The lion's share of the south (old Taft following) is generally attributed to Bricker.

If you count all the rest for Willkie, it will be only enough to tie up the convention temporarily by preventing Bricker or a favorite son from getting a majority. To the eastern leaders, that means Dewey certainly will be it.

Mr. Willkie can upset this obvious trend only by winning a majority of primaries (30 of the 48 states do not have them) or by tying up with the favorite sons who he already recognizes as against him. He has every thing a candidate needs, including financial and publishing support. But it can be readily seen that Dewey can win against him—without campaigning.

Finn's Diplomacy Is Skillful

By Jack Stinnett
Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, — When (and observers here insist that is the word, not "if") Finland gets out of this war, none will be happier than the legion of Washington friends of Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procope (pronounced pro-see-pay).

Few diplomats have had a more difficult situation to cope with here than Envoy Procope. None has carried it off with greater skill. Three years and more ago, little bleeding Finland had the sympathy of the United States and a lot of the rest of the world in her one-sided struggle against the Russian invasion. Millions of dollars were poured into Finnish relief funds and $20,000,000 of lend-lease was earmarked for Finnish aid. In those days Finland was fighting an enemy allied with Germany.

Procope

Then came changes in this crazy global war, and Finland, again in the scrap, was discovered battling on the side of the hated Nazis, against our great ally—Russia.

It is a tribute to the rare diplomacy of Procope that not only has there been no outright severance of diplomatic relations between this country and Finland but that he and his attractive wife, British born Margaret Shaw, have continued to be two of the most socially popular members of the diplomatic set.

Impressive Personality

Procope is 54, but in spite of graying hair, looks as if he were in his early forties. He is tall, straight, slim and handsome. If he could be compared to any one on the international scene, it would be Anthony Eden, for he was the "boy wonder" in Finland's foreign affairs. He entered the Finnish parliament in 1918 and two years later, when he was only 31, was named Minister of Commerce and Industry. He served a stint at the League of Nations and by 1928 was convinced that the League as then constituted was a failure.

He came to the United States as minister in 1938 and was immediately one of the most popular of the diplomatic set. In 1939, he was divorced, and within a day the Capital's flutter girls marked him as Washington's most eligible. A little over a year later, he put an end to that by his marriage to Miss Shaw.

The Finnish legation, of course, can't spend any money on propaganda (being at war with our ally) but it goes all out for social activities—small parties where no embarrassments are likely to arise. Supreme court justices, cabinet officials, state department executives, members of congress, and well-known members of the press are frequent guests.

Procope never misses an opportunity to stress that his country is not an "ally" to any dictator nation but only continuing its resistance against the same aggressors it was fighting when American dollars and American sympathy were so plentiful. However, Procope never makes his own opportunities and never embarrasses his guests by making an issue of it.

As for the possibility of Finland's withdrawal from the war he's too astute even to discuss it, but it's no secret that every time rumors come from Russia, Stockholm, Switzerland or London that it is imminent, there's many a happy toast drunk at the legation on Wyoming avenue.

Hull Report to Congress Welcomed as Step Toward Closing Legislative-Executive Gap.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE fact that immediately upon his return Secretary Hull is making a personal report directly to congress may in the long run be recognized as one of the historic events of our time.

Hull could not have achieved so tremendous a success at Moscow if the senate had not given him such an overwhelming vote of confidence in the Connally resolution. For without that vote he would have been speaking for only one branch of the government; with that vote he spoke for the United States. No other American diplomat in our times has spoken with such weight.

Now he returns to the congress which made this possible. We may rejoice. For in the conflict between congress and the executive there resides the most dangerous weakness of our institutions. Upon their ability to work together, each informing and each strengthening the other, depends our political salvation, and in small measure that of the world.

Need Evident

It has been increasingly evident during the war that ways must be found to bridge the chasm between the two branches of the government. Our constitutional system is based on the doctrine of the separation of powers, but this doctrine was never meant to mean that congress and the executive should live as suspicious rivals in separate worlds.

In fact, it was originally intended, as the actions of George Washington show, that the president or the members of his cabinet should go down to congress, as Hull is now doing. It was bad luck, rather than anything in the letter and spirit of the Constitution itself, which caused Washington to stop going to congress, and to set up the unfortunate precedent of aloofness which has prevailed ever since.

Time and again men have sought to reestablish continuing relations. Committees of congress have recommended it. Presidents Garfield, Taft and Wilson have urged it. For the United States government cannot be well conducted, especially in time of great stress and urgency, unless there is constant, confident communications between the two branches.

It is distressing to think how much unnecessary trouble we might have been spared if congress and the executive had regularly pooled their knowledge and instructed one another, before either committed itself to a position which the other would not support. Indeed, we may say that if the two branches could establish regular communications we should have dealt with the thing which will either make or break our system of government.

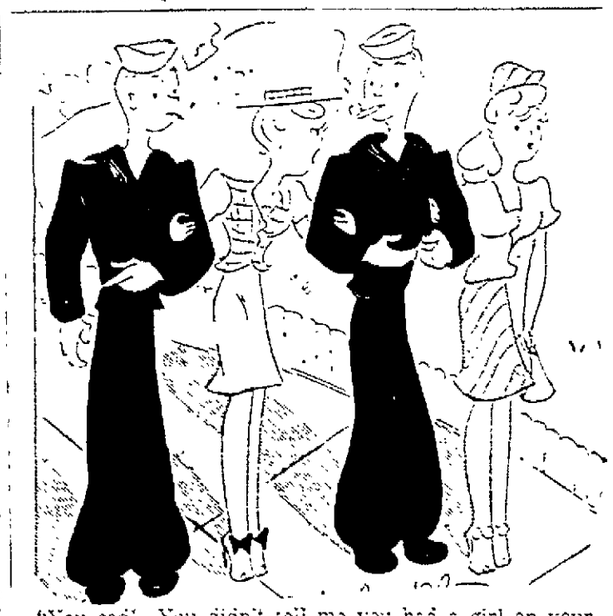
This reform is as simple as it is obvious and as it is important. It requires no constitutional amendment, no new laws, nothing more than a supplementary rule of procedure in the two houses of congress.

Hull's appearance before congress might well serve as a means of drawing attention to a resolution recently introduced by a representative of his own state of Tennessee, Estes Kefauver. The resolution calls for an amendment to Rule XXXIII of the house, by which once a week or once a fortnight there would be a two-hour period in which heads of departments and of the independent agencies would answer in person and orally both written and oral questions propounded by members of the house.

Representative Kefauver has outlined the mechanics which, as he himself insists, are merely suggestions for the house to consider. The short debate which took place a few days ago on his resolution was conducted on a very high plane, was quite nonpartisan, and indicated a wide support for the idea in the house.

There is no doubt whatever that if the house adopted the proposal the executive would welcome it. It is true that congress could not compel cabinet members to come before it. But the cabinet member who did not wish to come would be a foolish man indeed, and would at once write himself down as unfit for his office.

The advantages of the proposal are so evident that it seems almost unnecessary to insist upon them. Perhaps the greatest advantage of all would be that by this simple bit of common sense the ordinary citizen would find it infinitely easier to know what was going on in Washington.



"You cad! You didn't tell me you had a girl on your other arm!"

Still a Good Bet

It May Take Till Next Summer To Lick Germany But Collapse Before Christmas Is Our Guess.

By DAMON RUNYON

MY prediction that the war in Europe will be over by Christmas now seems improbable. Our military experts think it will take until mid-1944 to subdue the Nazis.

But on Nov. 1, 1918, few thought the Germans were going to collapse. They still appeared strong on that date 25 years ago. There were rumors of dissension behind the enemy fighting front and reports of civilian unrest, but German bayonets seemed as formidable as ever.

Gen. Pershing's men were advancing through the Argonne at heavy cost, taking enemy trenches and fortified heights. "The old man" was talking of driving on to Berlin as the opposition steadily gave ground. Certainly the soldiers of the great American divisions, now for the most part trained and seasoned veterans, had no thought of anything but a long and bloody campaign.

Then, overnight, the break came. The Germans asked for an armistice, which meant surrender. We first had the false report that set the United States crazy with joy. A few days later came the real thing—the end of hostilities. The whole business happened within a week. The bogging-down of the Germans was so sudden and unexpected it left our military chieftains momentarily stunned.

THE same thing can happen again. We are told in this country that we must not anticipate an early finish to the war lest it promote over-confidence among our people, though there seems to be no such prohibitions on Lord Halifax and British officials. They are calmly predicting the speedy capitulation of the enemy.

And why not? It is not in the cards that Hitler can win. Everyone knows he is a goose gosling, probably even Hitler himself. His case is hopeless. Naturally, he wants to fight on because with the Nazi cause lost, Hitler is lost too. He must realize it is unlikely the Allies will be as charitable toward him as they were with the kaiser in 1918 and permit him any asylum short of the grave.

It is the view of the military leaders that generally prevails in a situation of the nature that now confronts the Nazis. Hitler's associates undoubtedly know they are licked and will eventually force his surrender. German military men do not believe that dying in the last ditch can overcome the inevitable, as revealed by military events.

IN 1918, the German civilian population lived behind its armies without having known the taste of actual war within the borders of Germany. It knew the usual civilian privations of war, and it knew the civilian sorrows of loved ones lost in battle, but it did not know the devastation of its cities which its soldiers had visited on the French, the Belgians and others. It did not know of ruined homes, of windrows of civilian dead.

These things the civilians of Germany now know. They know all the horrors of bombings that their leaders told them they were going to visit on other peoples without reprisals. They have seen their cherished civic landmarks and monuments wiped out, their great industrial plants wrecked, their homes destroyed. They are suffering as they have made other peoples suffer, and they must know it is still only the beginning.

If the civilians of Germany could not stand up under a war that left their country untouched, I do not believe they can stand up much longer under the punishment they are now receiving. They can dish it out, but they cannot take it. I still say the collapse of the Germans is imminent, and that Christmas is not too soon to expect their message asking for a cessation of hostilities.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I am being fairly miserable with my first hard cold of the season. It is something I look forward to every year.

It gives me a chance to tell your aunt I can't do any work for an indefinite period, at the same time reminding her that the only dangerous thing about the common cold is the way it weakens the system and opens the way for more serious ailments, such as pneumonia. Your aunt is scared stiff of pneumonia. She always orders me to go to bed right away, which I do.

I have been in bed two days now and am feeling fine, but probably will not get up until about noon the day after tomorrow, at which time I will be fully rested and caught up on my reading and radio listening, not to mention sleeping. I have been eating like a horse and living the life of Riley. While this cold has put me a little ahead of schedule, it will serve a purpose of getting me rested up for the first half of winter.

If things are as usual, I'll have another cold in January, to tide me over until time to start thinking about spring. Then most always I get one in April, which gets me rested up for summer. I hear people complaining about colds and do not blame them when it is impossible to go to bed. But as far as I am concerned a cold is a blessing in disguise for us sensible people.

My views on resting are well known to you, but I feel more certain now than ever that our country's problems would be fewer and easier to handle if we didn't have so many people trying to handle them who are too tired to think straight. I see lots of them around here, and I suppose you see them where you are. They are people who should go to bed and sleep for a week before trying to decide anything because they are too tired to know what they are deciding. There's nothing we can do about them, I suppose, except hope there will be a place for them in the booby hatch.

We are all ready for winter here. I caught on this cold getting things buttoned up the other day when it was raining and I was messing around making sure everything was snug for the big freeze when I should be inside keeping warm. That old stove in the living room your aunt always has been ashamed of is coming in mighty handy. Coal is hard to get. I could have sold it for a good price a week ago to a fellow who said he was looking for one just like it to give his family for Christmas. Keep writing and tell me your plans for Thanksgiving so we will be able to make our plans here. You're still invited for free eats if you can make the trip. We will have plenty.

Mica Mines Again Busy

Carolina Hills Pour Out Mineral Vital to War Program.

By KEN McNEIL
Associated Press Writer

SPINE, N. C.—A little army is digging away on the slopes of western North Carolina's rest about 80 per cent of United States' supply of mica from the earth's enduring, glass-like minerals—is the manufacture of apparatus for America's fighting men as insulation in radios and condensers.

Despite years numerous so-called mica mines and a few well-owned mines operating in these mountain counties of the east, the demand for their product is so great India could produce in the slab-like mineral this country at a lower price than was profitable for domestic operators.

War changed all that. As a result the long-dormant industry suddenly became alive and helped along by considerable hike in the market price of mica. Company mines added employes, small, individually operated mines enlarged their diggings; closed mines were reopened and a new crop of prospectors opened fresh ones.

Center of the industry is here in Mitchell county, where virtually every hillside of the rolling Blue Ridge range is punctured by mica diggings. Exact production figures for the area have not been released, but state officials estimate it about 80 per cent of the domestic output.

Mines Worked By Hand

Operation of the mines is practically all by hand, since it is desirable to have the mica in large slabs. Its value on the market is in proportion to the dimensions of the individual pieces. Because of this, those experienced in retrieving the mineral from the ground are eagerly sought by the operator.

Until recently testing of mica—for splitting, cracks and hardness—was done by hand. Now, however, mechanical testing apparatus has been installed at the large centers of production. Nevertheless, many blind persons, because of their especially sensitive fingers, still are employed to test certain types.

Mica is marketed only through Colonial Mica Corporation, a subsidiary of Metals Reeserve, itself a branch of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Colonial has offices here and at Asheville, N. C.

Pearl Street P-T.A. Paper Drive Nets $37.25

The sum of $37.25 was netted in a recent paper drive it was announced by Mrs. Lloyd Williams, president, at a meeting of the Pearl Street P.-T. A. Tuesday night. Another collection will be taken in the near future, she announced. To open the program Mrs. Robert Evans directed group singing and Rev. Robert W. Faulkner, pastor of Calvary Evangelical church, conducted the devotions, using as his theme a verse from the 10th chapter of St. Mark.

Proceeds of the paper drive will be turned over to the school, Mrs. Robert Evans, membership chairman, reported 278 members enrolled in the unit.

Dr. Frederick Rea, guest speaker, was presented by Mrs. E. E. Holt. He took as his topic, "Health in the Home" and discussed the following general topics: "Immunization, tonsils, sleeping habits and food." A general discussion followed with questions from the audience. Patricia Bryans, accompanied by Dorothy Tron, played a violin number, "Song of India." The two second grades and Miss Martha Striker's fifth grade were in charge of refreshments with Mrs. Fleta Hankel and Miss Striker serving. The second grade taught by Miss Esther Eggleston received the attendance banner. A Christmas program will be presented by the first, second and third grades the afternoon of Dec. 14.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

...ache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. Backache may be Nature's chief way of telling you that excess acids and poisonous waste are making you miserable. Many times such pains and aches come from the kidneys, and many people pass about 3 pints a day.

When the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters in your kidneys work well, poisonous waste matter stays out of the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Recruit from Upper Sandusky Is Third Enlisted in Area During WAC Drive

Mrs. Betty Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Cram of Upper Sandusky, was inducted into the Women's Army Corps Tuesday in Columbus and left for Daytona Beach, Fla. where she will receive her basic training, the local WAC recruiting office reported today. She is the third enlistee from the area served by the Marion office who has responded since the nationwide enlistment campaign was officially opened on Nov. 8.

Mrs. Sims was sworn into the corps on Nov. 9. She graduated from Upper Sandusky High school in 1938 and prior to her enlistment was employed at the Scioto Ordnance plant. Her husband, Sgt. Harold Sims, who is stationed in England with the glider infantry, has been in service 18 months. Mrs. Sims' grandmother, Mrs. Charles E. Cram, lives at 127 Johns street.

First of Campaign

Miss Edith Irene Retterer of Harpster, O., postmistress of Wyandot county for eight years was the first who was inducted from this area after the campaign opened and Mrs. Carrie Manley of Loudenville, O. was the second recruit. Miss Retterer was a member of the third all-Ohio unit that left Columbus on Armistice Day and Mrs. Manley left for basic training on Nov. 13.

Eight counties are served by the Marion recruiting office. They are: Marion, Wyandot, Harding, Richland, Ashland, Morrow, Knox and Crawford. Committees are being set up in each community in the area to accept the responsibility of recruiting women for the non-combatant jobs in the army. Walter Moore is the executive chairman of the Marion committee. He is assisted by Miss Mary Jo Stafford, Miss Josephine Morris, W. F. Orcutt, James G. Lytle and Marion McWhorter.

Goal for State

When the recruiting campaign opened, the goal for the state was set at 3,505, a figure equaling the total number of casualties reported at that time. Dec. 7, the anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack is the date set for the end of the drive. During the campaign, recruits from each state are formed into a separate division and trained as a state unit.

Numerous requests for information have been received at the local station, since the campaign opened, regarding the WAC regulations. One of the questions most frequently asked is concerning the pay. The women receive regular Army pay and in addition to the monthly pay check, food, lodging and all medical and dental services are free, with an additional 20 per cent pay increase for overseas duty.

Some Requirements

Enlistees must be between the ages of 20 and 49 years, of average height and weight and citizens of the United State. They must also be without dependents and without children under 14 years of age. Applicants may be either married or single but all recruits must conform to the local War War Manpower commission regulations.

Information regarding enlistment may be obtained from the WAC recruiting station located in the postoffice building. Seventeen women from Marion and vicinity, have enlisted since the corps was organized over a year ago, including the three enlistments since the recent campaign opened.

WAREHOUSE WHISKY WITHDRAWALS DROP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — Senator Scrugham (D-Nev.), whose resolution set off the senate's current investigation of liquor supplies, asserted today there is enough whisky in bonded warehouses to provide every American citizen with more than 12 quarts apiece.

Asserting the rate of withdrawal from warhouses has dropped by half since last year, Scrugham said internal revenue officials told him the bonded stocks stand roughly at 400,000,000 gallons.

There is no way of telling, he added, how much will be sold straight and how much will be blended with neutral spirits and coloring matter for sale under new brand names.

Senator Overton (D-La) said if analysis of such blends showed them to be deleterious the pure food and drug act should be invoked.

Overton, a bystander in the investigation, suggested additional whisky could be pried loose by cutting in half the present eight-year period in which liquor may be held untaxed in bond, and applying a stiffly graduated tax for each extra month it is held.

Scrugham and Chairman George of the senate finance committe likewise thought taxes might be the key to the scarcity problem, which the office of price administration said was complicated by a growing "gangster element."

OPA officials said they were working secretly on a program designed to combat hijacking and illegal trafficking in liquor.

They start public hearings next week. The liquor industry announced through Owsley Brown, president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, that it welcomes the investigation.

GREEN TELLS FARMERS TO HELP THEMSELVES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18—Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, asserted today people must show they do not need federal assistance if they expect to be free of governmental controls and regulations.

In an address prepared for second day sessions of the federation's three-day convention here, Green said:

"It's becoming more apparent as time goes on that if we are going to have government controls and regulations relinquished, the people themselves must work desperately hard to have the things done which make it necessary for governments to assume responsibility.

"If farmers are afraid of government bureaucracies, the best way to get rid of them, if that is desirable, is to let it be known that they—the farmers—are able and willing to take over the functions the bureaucracies are now performing."

Green asserted farmers themselves asked the government to perform many of the services it now operates.

Assistant Federation Secretary L. A. Taylor estimated Farm Bureau Cooperative associations' business volume this year would approximate 19 million dollars, nearly double that of two years ago.

Citing additions to the association's production facilities, Taylor said in a prepared address since the last annual meeting a terminal elevator in Springfield, an alfalfa dehydrating plant at Payne and a chick hatchery in Columbus has been purchased.

Mr. Willkie Speak

...at the final session at ...ton hotel includ... ...dent Wallace and ...Willkie Messages ...m Prime Minister ...chill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden of Great Britain and from General Charles De Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation.

The President, whose message was read by Mrs Ogden Reid, vice president of the Herald Tribune and broadcast nationally, said "in the years—and perhaps the centuries of peace—that are to follow this war, the forces of civilization and common decency, the overwhelming majority of the human race, must always maintain the initiative.

"In the historic conferences at Moscow, we have made several long steps forward. We are making substantial advances in another field, in the conferences now being held by the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration."

Wallace declared "lack of planning and the selfishness of so-called hard-headed men can turn peace II into World war III."

"We must resolve," he said, "that we shall not again produce worldwide explosion by allowing certain private interests to high pressure congress into higher tariffs while other private interests are financing unsound loans abroad at the expense of the small investor."

Willkie Praises Accord

Willkie praised the Moscow accord reached by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China as "a sound foundation on which we can now build" but urged that it be enlarged to permit all the United Nations to sign a declaration of intention.

"The circumstance of the Moscow meeting could be perverted from cooperation as it might possibly do under certain circumstances," he said, "into a mere alliance of four powerful countries for the ruling of the world."

Churchill observed the forum was held "in the glow of one of the most cheering developments in international affairs the Moscow conference' which for the first time joined the four great powers has pledged ... to work together not only in waging the war but in building the structure of a lasting peace."

Father of 9 Children Leaves for Naval Duty

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 18—A mother and nine children including six-months-old twins, bade au revoir yesterday to the head of the family who is off to war with the Navy.

Armand Beliveau, 34, chose a naval career after selective service called him.

"I'm willing to do my part to end the war," the father said as he left home, "but I feel there are a lot younger men without families who could be taken before family homes like mine are disrupted."

In addition to the twins, a boy and a girl, Beliveau left seven other children whose ages ranged up to 11 years.

Wisconsin's First Ace Gets Rousing Greeting at Home

By The Associated Press

POPLAR, Wis., Nov. 18—A soldier with the blood of 20 Japs on his sheath came home to the modest farm of the Carl T. Bong family yesterday, clasped his arms around his mother and said "I'm ...sa-mom."

His mother held him tight, repeating over and over, "sonny, sonny," as the tears flowed down her cheeks.

Then all was bedlam as a 29-piece band of Superior Teachers college air corps trainees struck up the Army air corps song and father, sisters, brothers and friends embraced the soldier.

Capt. Richard I. Bong 23, Wisconsin's first ace of the war who has bagged 21 Jap planes in the New Guinea area, had come home.

Besides his mother, father, five sisters and two brothers, the cadet band, the captain's friends, representatives from two legion posts and service clubs from nearby Superior overflowed the spacious rooms of the farm home to greet him.

All that the captain could say was "Gee it's good to be back."

Today the young fighter pilot who holds the silver star, distinguished flying cross with oak leaf cluster, slept, ...ted and visited with his family.

After that he plans to hunt and "cut a little wood to get in trim." Then he's going back to the war.

Soldiers and sailors quartered in this country eat an average of one egg a day per man.

RUSSIAN-U. S. TIES CHEERED BY PRAVDA

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 15—The Communist party newspaper Pravda, in an editorial on the 16th anniversary of the beginning of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, pointed yesterday to increasingly friendly relations between the nations, and gave warm praise for American aid during the war.

"The Soviet Union appreciates very much the moral and material aid accorded the Soviet Union by the United States since the beginning of the invasion by Germany," the editorial said. "It is known that during the war our country on the basis of the lend-lease agreement has received a big amount of arms, war material and food. The good will of the American government and of the American people has been invested in these supplies."

Pravda then gave credit to President Roosevelt for helping to eliminate much of the misunderstanding of the Soviet Union.

"In the past," Pravda said, "President Roosevelt had to overcome quite a number of harmful prejudices and wrong opinions about the Soviet Union which existed among Americans, partly because of lack of knowledge of real conditions and also because of the hostile position assumed by some people. 'Such people still exist in the United States, but they have been unmasked."

The editorial added "Soviet public opinion has always considered and now considers that collaboration and friendship between the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. A. multiply their forces and contribute to prosperity, and will lead to victory over the common enemy."

Good Land Not Always Rich

Show Poor Soil Sometimes Produces Superior Table Foods.

The Associated Press

DER, Colo. — Studying ts of soil upon crops and Colorado university re- ve reported poor land produces superior table sults of preliminary ex- ts were so startling that ham, associate profes- hemistry, recommended e be more research to nutritional qualities of rather than quantity.

rops of peas, beans and were grown in two plots, unirrigated, unferti- land; the other choice, and fertilized land.

oil with plenty of nour- and water tended to pro- s of a comparatively high cellulose content, while grew a less luxuriant the plants had higher mineral content," said Wakeham.

The findings are important, the university said, because such elements as anaemia and rickets are on and to accompany mineral deficiencies. Poor nutrition likewise may play a part in other ailments.

Observations by farmers tend to confirm our findings, Wakeham said. 'Cows pastured on rough foothill country, where grass is sparse, not only give more milk, but milk of higher fat content than when the same cows are pastured on rich, bottom meadows.

'Winter wheat grown on dry land, summer fallowed every other year, commands premium prices from millers. Such wheat is richer in protein and mineral content than wheat grown on heavily fertilized, irrigated bottom land."

Specifically, Wakeham reported beans and peas from poor soil contained more calcium, phosphorus, and iron, which are essential "metabolic minerals" than crops grown on rich, irrigated soil. In quantity, the richer soil produced about twice as much as the poor soil.

The amount of mineral available in the land does not always determine how much of the mineral will be absorbed by the plants, Wakeham found. Some of the 'poor' land had less mineral than the richer soil but crops from the poor soil absorbed more of the mineral.

"It is generally true that crops grown on marginal lands, under marginal conditions, are more richly mineralized than those grown on heavily fertilized, adequately watered lands, the fact is of practical importance from the nutritional viewpoint," said Wakeham in urging further investigation.

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time. Tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

BLOWS ON JAP SHIPS STEP UP

Sea Roving Bombers Delivering More Heavy Blows Against Enemy.

By The Associated Press

Sea-roving allied bombers have stepped up their attacks on ships and airbases serving Japan's supply-strained outpost defenses —from northeastern New Guinea and the Marshall islands to the Chinese mainland.

Latest advices embraced the probable sinking of a 2,500-ton enemy ship off New Guinea and a 6,000-ton vessel off New Britain; the 40-ton bombing of a Bougainville airfield; the firing of a Jap ship and harbor and air installations in the Marshall islands and further damage to Japanese shipping at Hong-Kong. In the Hong Kong raid, the second in two days, Liberator and Mitchell bombers of the U. S. 14th air force sank an 11,000-ton cargo vessel and two small freighters.

Japs Claim 4 Ships Sunk

Tokyo radio, in its unconfirmed claims of new air-sea victories, asserted four allied transports were sunk and two other ships damaged in an air raid south of Bougainville. It listed ten Japanese planes shot down against six American.

The Japanese controlled Manila radio reported that a typhoon disrupted all utilities in the city, wrecked many homes and presumably raised havoc with much of the rest of Luzon island. Large sections were flooded.

Premier General Hideki Tojo reiterated, at a luncheon in Tokyo for oriental newspapermen, that Japan is fighting to "emancipate East Asia from British and American greed for world hegemony."

The time it has taken to open a second front in Europe, said Maj. Gen. R. H. Dewing, chief of the British-Australian army liaison staff, in Melbourne is an indication of the delay that will be necessary after the defeat of Germany before allied might can be concentrated in the Pacific to crush Japan.

Bases Undisclosed

Those Marshall and Gilbert raids are being made from undisclosed bases by land-based army Liberators of the Seventh airforce, with headquarters in Hawaii. But Hawaii is more than 2,000 miles removed from the raiding scene. Nearer to the Marshalls and Gilberts are the Ellice islands to the southwest where American air bases recently have been acquired.

Although Japan has air bases in the Marsalls and Gilberts, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported no enemy interception encountered by the Liberators which struck Monday at Jaluit and Mili in the Marshalls and Makin in the Gilberts.

The raids have followed close upon public utterances by Admiral Nimitz at Pearl Harbor his central Pacific forces soon will launch an offensive against Japan.

SENATOR — Miss Dorothy Tangney (above) of West Australia, first woman to be elected to the Australian senate, shown on her way to Canberra.

HULL

lantic charter and the declaration by united nations."

Cooperation Required

Hence, he said, each nation's own primary interest requires it to cooperate with the others in these common interests, which he described as "indispensable."

Hull said this fact led the Moscow conference to adopt the four-nation declaration by China, Russia, Great Britain and the United States.

He laid particular stress on the provision wherein the four governments declared they "recognized the necessity of establishing at the earliest practicable date a general international organization, based on the principle of the sovereign quality of all peace-loving states and open to membership by all such states, large and small."

Hull declared this principle will be the foundation stone upon which the future international organization will be built.

Nowhere, he said, has the conception of sovereign equality been applied more widely in recent years than in the American family of nations.

He declared the four nations have thereby "laid the foundation for cooperative effort in the post-war world toward enabling all peace loving nations, large and small, to live in peace and security, to preserve the liberties and rights of civilized existence, and to enjoy expanded opportunities and facilities for economic, social and spiritual programs.

Hull said military discussions which took place in Moscow were aimed at closer cooperation.

"I am glad to say that there is now in Moscow a highly competent United States military mission headed by Major General John R. Deane."

Hull paid personal tribute to the efficiency of Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, who arranged for the business of the conference, and to Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden for his qualities of statesmanship.

"I found in Marshal Stalin a remarkable personality, one of the great statesmen and leaders of this age."

He said he was deeply impressed by the Russians and the epic quality of their patriotism.

"A people who will fight against ruthless aggression, in utter contempt of death, as the men and women of the Soviet union are fighting merit the admiration and good will of the peoples of all countries."

Decide on Committee

In enumerating the accomplishments at Moscow, Hull told how the meeting decided to set up a European advisory commission in London and an advisory council for Italy.

He described the principles set forth in the declaration on Italy as "among the most basic human rights in civilized society."

He mentioned briefly the declaration on Austria and the declaration proclaiming punishment for German war atrocities.

He said the Moscow discussions lasted two weeks but did not, and were not intended to, bring about the solution of all problems before the conference.

"There were other problems such, for example, as questions relating to boundaries, which must, by their very nature, be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities. This is in accordance with the position maintained for some time by our government."

Hull declared "of supreme importance is the fact that at the conference the whole spirit of international cooperation, now and after the war, was revitalized and given practical expression,' and that in such an atmosphere many of the problems which are difficult today will become undoubtedly easier.

Scioto Plant's Closing Set

the world for one type of war plane motors, and the other is the office and staff of the area engineer, which serves a number of military installations in this area.

Capt. Thompson today said the staff maintained at the plant by the ordnance department has been reduced from approximately 30 to about half that number. This staff, headed by a few Army officers, consists principally of civilian employes.

Text of Letter

The text of Major General Campbell's letter to Capt. Thompson follows:

Dear Captain Thompson:

"Every American has sound reason to take immense pride in the spectacular success of the Ordnance Department's small arms ammunition program. You and your staff, the contractor-operator and every employe of the Scioto Ordnance Plant deserve the highest praise for performing production services which have supplied our troops and those of our Allies with all the small arms ammunition they can use, and more.

"Supplementing the official order for the closing of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, I am writing personally to you to present the background and explanation of exactly why, in the midst of the most extensive warfare of all time, it has been found necessary to terminate activities at a plant manufacturing small arms ammunition.

"Of course, the war is not won. Indeed, there is every indication that the most bitter fighting lies ahead. How is it then that the United States is in a position to shut down even one small arms ammunition plant which has so effectively contributed to firepower of the largest Army in our history, and to the firepower of our Allies?

"The facts are as simple as they are plain.

"First, all of you there at Scioto Ordnance Plant have stepped in with characteristic American ability and versatility, quickly mastered the art of small arms ammunition manufacture, and it most certainly is an art; and attained production records far and away beyond anything anyone had any reason to expect. It was done with lightning speed and with no sacrifices of quality, for all battlefront reports state no field commander has the slightest fault to find with small arms ammunition performance.

"While you at Scioto Ordnance Plant were at work, the United States was mobilizing its great Army of millions of men, all of whom had to be armed, clothed, furnished ammunition and other equipment. Supply of this initial equipment is now all but finished. Meanwhile, the submarine menace has been virtually eliminated, which means new dependability of transport of ammunition overseas. Time was when all requirements had to be based on the likelihood that certain large quantities of supplies were certain to be sunk. Provision had to be made for replacements of all materiel to be on hand immediately.

"One type of our calibre .50 machine gun ammunition, the incendiary, recently announced by the Chief of Army Air Forces, General Arnold, has been an immense factor in saving of ammunition. Its superior destructive power has resulted in a far lower ammunition expenditure in destruction of enemy aircraft than could have been envisioned.

"When our task force went to Kiska, large amounts of ammunition went with them. They were ready for trouble. The Japs suspected as much and the island was deserted when our troops arrived. That unused ammunition added to our surpluses. Every day that the day of the allotment of ammunition per gun is not fired, we have more ammunition in reserve.

"War is the most fluid thing in the world. From the planning viewpoint, only the worst side of the picture can be looked at. If planning fails to take into account every eventuality, a war may be readily lost by unusual demands on ammunition or weapon supply in event of reverses. If planning has failed to face the darkest side of the picture, the needed ammunition or weapons won't be there. American planning provided for every eventuality. American industry and labor in such plants as yours, took hold and did the job. We have the small arms ammunition, and we have it now, and we're ready for any crisis, however unexpected. How much better that is, than for any of us to have to blame ourselves for the death of a single American soldier, just because there wasn't enough ammunition!

"The American taxpayers have cheerfully borne the burden of the cost of the war. As the Treasury Department so aptly says: "You give your money, they (our soldiers) give their lives." As you are aware, the Ordnance Department operates on a basis of rigid economy wherever and whenever possible. Closing of the Scioto Ordnance Plant will mean savings to the taxpayers. Nobody would be concerned with such savings if the war effort required continuance of the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

"The Ordnance Department is in the position of the factory manager. When the management, (higher Army authority) determines upon a cut in any portion of the war program affecting Ordnance, that means to us what it means to any factory manager —a cut in production. That is the situation which applies to your most excellent facility.

"I have gone into some detail in setting forth the why of the closing of your facility because I want you, the contractor operator, and every employe in your great plant to know the facts. I also want all of you to know of our high esteem for your magnificent work in small arms ammunition manufacture.

"Wherever the personnel of the Scioto Ordnance Plant return to work, I am certain that one of the finest recommendations anyone of them could possess will be the fact he or she has been an employe of a vital war plant which performed its specialized task so well that it may now close down, but forever stand as an historic symbol of America's answer to enemies who stretch blood-drenched hands toward America's freedom.

"You're a great crowd out there at the Scioto Ordnance Plant and through you, I want to extend my personal appreciation and that of the Ordnance Department to each employe and to wish each of them good fortune as they enter other forms of productive war endeavor."

Notice to Employes

The text of the notice to employes, posted today by Capt. Thompson and Mr. Livermore, follows:

"The schedules of all small arms ammunition production are regulated by the Army Service Forces, Office of Chief of Ordnance and must reflect the requirements of our armed forces.

"Changing needs by our combat forces, plus the fact that a sufficiently large bank of finished ammunition is now accumulated, permit a reduction in the schedules of all small arms ammunition plants and releases of both men and materials for other vital war needs.

"Accordingly, we have been directed by the Office of Chief of Ordnance to discontinue the manufacture of ammunition at this plant. The production of top quality ammunition by this industry has been one of the outstanding achievements of the War Production program, and the fact that the program has been met so well is a fine tribute to the combined efforts of its workers, management, and the Ordnance Department.

"The Scioto Ordnance Plant must adjust its schedule to these new requirements at once. All employees are earnestly requested to continue working until notified by their foreman that their services are no longer required.

"All personnel affected will be given every possible consideration regarding notice of lay-off.

"The U. S. Employment Service and the War Manpower Commission have been notified of this anticipated reduction in our force, and negotiations are under way to have a representative from their offices at our plant daily for the next 3 to 4 weeks. Watch the bulletin boards for further announcements on this subject.

"Your attention is directed to an important letter from Major General Campbell, Chief of Ordnance, which will be posted on this bulletin board later.

"To all those who must now transfer their efforts to other vital war work, personal appreciation is extended by Management and the Ordnance Department to you for your share in a job well done."

By The Associated Press

But a German breakthrough was acknowledged in eastern Bosnia, and only successful defensive operations were claimed in Dalmatia and Croatia.

C. OF C. DINNER

Americans is that the vicious little word is still the great American byword — 'I'm getting so much'—'I've gotten a raise'—'I'm going to quit because I can get more someplace else.' As long as farm organizations and pressure blocs are thinking and voting first of all in getting something like the highest possible price, price parity, more important than patriotism, as long as labor unions think first of all in terms of getting the highest possible dollar volume of wage rates and endless premium pay for every extra hour they serve their nation and as long as politicians are thinking in terms of getting elected now can a war be real to people who place a dollar sign upon their patriotism? Millions look upon the war as a great gravy bowl, dipping their arms in it up to their elbows, excusing that selfishness on the ground that somebody else is also getting his and therefore, 'I must get mine.'

"We must accept the fact that patriotism now means pain and sacrifice and that's the word we know how to spell but we do not know its meaning. Do not confuse inconvenience with sacrifice. Inconvenience is all that any of us have sustained up to now. Patriotism means bloodshed. We must omit from our minds any thought at all of what we might hope to get and think only in terms of what we can give and do.

"Winning the war as quickly and as economically as possible is the first job facing Americans today. Any businessman that doesn't give to the fullest possible extent of his time and money in the interest of victory any woman who buys from the black market or any labor man who calls men off jobs in vitally important industries is turning his back to America and is helping the enemy."

Time to 'Speak Up'

In his opening remarks Mr. Carney urged American business to make a stand, "It's time that business speaks up," he declared. "Industry has been sneered at by 'parlor pinks' overtaxed by politicians, who all at once found it very easy to spend and to waste the other fellow's dollar beaten bloody by labor unions and yet nothing is done to stop it because there isn't sufficient courage.

"But America turned to American factories, not to the social crackpots, in its hour of need. The job that American industry has done in converting from peacetime to wartime production ranks along with the Seven Wonders of the World. No aviator that brings down an enemy plane and no troop of soldiers with honored and tattered and shot-torn colors has a right to greater pride than those factories who in less than anyone could have believed have given us mass production of fighting planes, bombers, guns, ships, tanks and ammunition.

"Yes, the war is real to business. It's real to those who were forced out of business, those who are in business on a shoestring and to those who are making money fast, but turning it over at an equally rapid rate to the government in the form of taxes. Business is just a middle man—just a bus driver, taking in the nickels and turning them over to Henry Morgenthau at the car barn," Mr. Carney concluded his opening remarks on business.

Meets Many People

As sales manager and vice president of the Coleman Lamp & Stove Co. of Wichita, Kan., Mr. Carney travels on the average of 150,000 miles a year. In traveling one learns a great deal, Mr. Carney said. "Why taxi-cab drivers, mailmen and people in all walks of life tell you things that make you set up and take notice. Taxi-cab drivers know what is going on. They tell me of places police departments have never heard of."

During Canada's recent Fifth Victory Loan drive Mr. Carney was the principal speaker on a 13-day tour, throughout Canada.

Turnout at last night's dinner was the largest in the 28-year history of the annual Chamber of Commerce report meetings, Louis E. Michel, secretary, said.

Wilson B. Twoy was toastmaster for the banquet program. Frank M. Foster, new president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly and Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church, pronounced the invocation. Three numbers were presented by a trio from the Marion Steam Shovel Co. chorus. The trio included Margaret Clevenger, Dorothy Stephenson and Adema Koenig, accompanied by Elizabeth Curren.

50-Year Men Introduced

One of the highlights of the program was the introducion of men employed in Marion at one type of work for 50 years. Fifty year veterans present included: Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, A. R. Tennis, P. D. Gregg and John Von Kaenel, all of the Erie railroad; Charles Klingel, Byron Carter and S. B. Creasap, all of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and Charles Wissler and Louis Throckmorton, both of the Huber Manufacturing Co.

The program ended with Merle Lashey leading in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and with Rev. Eldred Johnston of the Central Christian church in pronouncing the benediction.

Mrs. J. B. Holloway Is P.-T.A. Speaker

A program was presented at a meeting of the Oak Street P.-T. A. Tuesday night. Bob Wingett sang two solos and Mrs. Ralph Wright contributed two readings. Mrs J. B. Holloway was a guest speaker. Plans were discussed for serving a supper for the night shift of the Universal Cooler Corp. The banner for having the largest number of parents present was won by the first grade taught by Miss Lottie Touchman.

Germany Battles for Islands To Guard Her Flank

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Since the dawn of history men have engaged from time to time in bloody battle on the rocky shores of the little islands of the Aegean sea, either to capture them or, having achieved that feat, to hold them against the enemy.

One would think that these eruptions on the face of the waters were endowed with priceless wealth instead of being mainly barren volcanic upheaval. Some of the biggest have had their merits and have been developed, but most of them have served merely as homes for fishermen.

Still the battle of the Aegean islands goes on. The Germans have stormed Leros in the Dodecanese group by air and by sea and have wrested it from the British after a fierce five-day struggle. Small Cos, twenty miles south of Leros, likewise fell to the Hitlerites about three weeks ago.

Why such a expenditure of men and materiel for a handful of rocky islands?

Islands Are Strategic

If you will glance at your maps of the near east the story is there plain enough. Taken as a whole, these islands have great strategic importance in relation to the Near East, the Balkans and even to the greatest battle of all time which is being waged along the Russo-German front. They have yet another value, and that's psychological, for they lie close to Turkey and their possession by the Hitlerites is calculated to give the Turks grim warning not to challenge Germany's strength by giving aid to the allies.

Note first on your maps the big Mediterranean island of Crete, which stretches like a watch-dog across the mouth of the Aegean. Then as you go north into the Aegean there are the Italian Dodecanese islands on the right and the Greek Cyclades on the left. Beyond these are still others, until the whole sea is fairly choked with them.

He who holds these islands controls the Aegean—a fact which is doubly important because this is the only water route to the Black sea. And it's Hitler who now possesses all the important islands, including Crete, with the exception of Samos.

Naturally one of the first questions that arise is why the allies, having got their foothold in the Italian Dodecanese, when Italy collapsed, should now be thrown out by the Nazis. Well, that's a hot question which likely will irk the allied high command. The loss presumably was due to lack of air coverage, the main allied bases being far away, but whether this handicap of distance should have been overcome is a point which somebody undoubtedly will have to answer on the carpet. Certainly this exhibition of Nazi strength is a warning that Hitler still is very dangerous.

Guards Russian Flank

You'd think that the fuehrer had trouble enough on his hands up in Russia without bothering with pin-head islands in the Aegean. But it's precisely because he is in such great difficulties up north that he's clinging so fiercely to the islands.

Actually these islands are indirect protection for the gravely endangered German right flank up in the Dnieper region. This is so for two vital reasons: (1) The islands effectively block invasion of the Balkans via the Aegean, and Hitler dare not allow the Balkans to collapse until he has pulled his battle-line clear back into Poland, past the entrance to the Balkan peninsula; (2) the blocking of the Aegean and the Dardanelles prevents the allies from giving Russia the vast aid which would be possible if the Black sea were open to them.

Of course, even if the Aegean were clear of the enemy, the allies still would have to get Turkey's permission before sending ships through the Dardanelles into the otherwise land-locked Black sea. One of the things that Hitler fears most is that the Turks will grant the allies air bases, and throw the Dardanelles open to them. He hopes that his recapture of such strongholds as Leros will make Ankara stop and think before lending aid to his enemy.

Of course, access to the Dardanelles would be of use only when the Germans had been cleared out of the Aegean. However, that job can be done when the allies tackle it in force, the present setbacks notwithstanding.

Tragedies Leave Only One Member of Family

NEWARK, O., Nov. 18—Tragedy which has heaped itself upon tragedy over a span of 30 years, left only one surviving member of the Shoults family today.

Gail S. Shoults, 18, was killed by a truck today, eighth member of his family to die violently since 1913.

Just 30 years ago his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Daly, and his cousin, Thelma Daly, were killed in a train wreck.

Dec. 7, 1932, fire leveled the Shoults home at nearby Rocky Ford, taking the lives of Gail's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shoults, his grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Lee, and a year-old sister.

Gail and his younger brother, Duane, were placed in the Licking county children's home and there they were reared.

This morning Gail started to Newark High school on his bicycle. It collided with a truck and Gail was crushed to death.

Duane now is alone.

ANOTHER 13 PER CENT PAPER CUT COMING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—The nation's newspapers today faced further cuts in newsprint which would fix their allowances for the first quarter of 1944 at approximately 23 per cent under their 1941 base tonnage for a three month period.

Excepted from reductions made yesterday by the newspaper advisory committee, were papers using no more than 25 tons in each quarter, while those using more than 1,000 tons in each quarter face the prospect of cuts estimated at 28 per cent.

The added curtailment proposals, announced by the war production board (WPB) after a two-day meeting of the committee, are expected to be adopted by WPB.

For most papers, cuts will be apportioned on a basis of 13 per cent under present levels, which, added to the 10.3 per cent reduction of last month, would bring total reductions to slightly more than 23 per cent.

Until this session of the committee, it had been planned to use 1943 as a base year but it was decided to compute usage rates on 1941 tonnage in the future.

Appeals for extra tonnage still will be entertained, said WPB. But agency officials said they expected a reduction in the number of appeals because of a revision of the base quota.

ment both for the armed forces in this country and abroad.

Drive heads again today praised parents of Marion servicemen for their liberal contributions to the drive. In many cases mothers and fathers of servicemen who are now engaged in war work have donated a full day's pay. "In view of this," a drive spokesman said, "it hardly seems justifiable that other Marion families do not contribute their full share to the drive."

Contributions may be mailed to either of Marion's three banks or to War Chest headquarters at 142½ East Center street.

FIRE NEAR ASHLEY CAUSES $8,000 LOSS

Large Chicken House, 8,000 Young Chickens Destroyed.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, Nov. 18 — A chicken house on the [illegible] Benedict farm five miles [illegible] here was destroyed by fire yesterday about 4:30 p. m. and approximately 8,000 young and grown chickens died in the flames. Hybrid seed corn valued at $1 which was stored in the building was destroyed also. Amount the loss was estimated at $[illegible]. There was no insurance.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Willard Benedict, who was visiting at the Walter Benedict home, when she glanced through a window and saw thick smoke coming from the chicken house. The structure 24 feet in length and 24 wide, was completed only recently and 1,000 chicks had been brought there Monday from the Ashley Baby Chick Co. The rest of the chickens housed in the building were half grown. The Ashley fire department responded to a call to combat the flames but the fire had gained too much headway for the building and contents to be saved. The firemen succeeded in preventing the spread of the blaze to other buildings. The building was heated by 15 wood stoves and two coal stoves. It was thought the fire started from one of the stoves.

Congressmen Favor U. S. Pay for Bond Ads

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—Rep. Cannon (D-Mo) said today a personal poll showed an overwhelming majority of the house in favor of a government-financed program of advertising war bond sales in small newspapers. He said he was for urging prompt action on legislation to spend up to $25,000,000 for that purpose.

Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, said in an interview 158 members out of less than 200 he questioned favored legislation similar to that passed Wednesday by the senate, and "a very small number have expressed themselves against it."

Marion City Library Joins Observance of 25th Annual Children's Book Week

By EDNA S. DUTTON.

The City library is joining with other libraries throughout the state and nation this week in the 25th annual observance of Children's Book Week. Posters, gay-jacketed books and myriads of volumes bearing alluring titles are to be found in the children's room, which has been decorated to carry out the anniversary theme, "Build the Future with Books."

Boys and girls who are growing up and playing their part in wartime conditions are asking for books as never before, books on the development of human freedom, on the history of our institutions and about the men who founded them. They are asking for books about the nations with whom we are working more closely and with whom we will build a better world, about science and industry and trade, about the rapid changes that are coming to our ways of doing things; they are asking for "story" books, books of poetry and imagination which have helped to build our heritage of courage, faith and fair play.

No Book Rationing.

Even this year when so much is rationed, there are many new and beautiful books, although war production has narrowed the margins and tucked words and pictures into smaller pages, but there are books to quicken the imagination, broaden sympathies and deepen understanding. In the intermediate section emphasis is placed on a selection of books coming under the heading of "Children in a World of War," and in the High school corner career and factual books are emphasized.

In the field of fact are to be found such volumes as Evelyn Stefannson's "Here Is Alaska," and with it Ellen and Attilio Gatti's "Here Is Africa." The latter is a pictorial masterpiece accompanied by a fine text which will open the door of Africa and disperse all the mystery and shadow. "Islands on Guard" is a companion to "Ocean Outposts," which is out in a new edition with material on the Solomons and New Guinea.

Popular Volumes.

Prominent in the display and for reading also—is the Julia Ellsworth Ford Foundation selection for the year, "Valiant Minstrel," the story of Harry Lauder by G. Malvern. Suitable for high school age, the story is an unbelievable one, of hardship and lonely beginnings, hard work, faith, ingenuity and bravery. Incidents told with gusto, warmth, humor and competency, the telling of a man's life and time evokes a heart-touching picture of one who loved all humanity. Voted the best picture book of the year is "The Little House," by Virginia Lee Burton, author of "Choo Choo" and "Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel." "Adam of the Road," by Elizabeth Janet Gray, winner of the 1943 Newbery Medal award, is the story of 13th Century England and Adam is a real boy inside his gay striped surcoat. With Adam the reader meets rich merchants, pilgrims with cockle shells upon their hats, farming folk driving pigs to the fair, noblemen with retinue, minstrels and priests, saints and thieves and honest country bodies, and tall Roger the Minstrel, and Nick, a small red spaniel.

DeMarigny Convicted on Illegal Gas Charge

By The Associated Press

Magistrate F. E. Field said he took "a most serious view" of the offense and ordered De Marigny and his close friend, the Marquis Georges De Visdelou, placed under £100 (about $420) bond each until tomorrow when they will be sentenced. Meals for Small Family

By BETSY NEWMAN

Small families have fewer points to spend for meats and fats, it is true, but if they save up their points—or economize on them—and get a fairly good-sized piece of meat, it will last longer than several smaller cuts. This helps to make up for the fewer points.

A perfect combination

MENU

Veal Pot Roast, Pot-Roasted Potatoes, Spinach, Banana Salad, Gingerbread, coffee or tea.

Veal Pot Roast

5 lb. rump roast of veal, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 1 tsp. poultry seasoning, 3 tbsps. lard, 1 tbsp. brown sugar, 1 tbsp. salt, pepper, ½ c. diced onion, 2 tbsps. vinegar.

Choose veal rump with bone left in. Mix dry mustard, poultry seasoning, brown sugar, salt and pepper together, and rub into roast. Brown roast very slowly in lard; the more slowly browned the better the flavor. Add diced onion, and vinegar, cover tightly and simmer over low fire for 2½ hours. This makes its own gravy and serves 3 persons to each pound of meat.

Banana Salad

Lettuce or other salad dressing, greens, bananas, chopped nutmeats.

Shred greens on individual salad plates, cut bananas in halves across the slit halves lengthwise. Arrange on greens on plates. Cover with mayonnaise or your favorite salad dressing, sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Gingerbread

1-3 c. fat, ½ c. sugar, 1 c. molasses, 1 egg, 3 c. sifted flour, 4 tsps. baking powder, ½ tsp. soda, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. cloves, ½ tsp. cinnamon, 1 c. milk.

Cream sugar and fat together, add molasses and beaten egg. Sift dry ingredients together twice and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Bake in 2 shallow pans in moderate over (350 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream cheese or whipped cream. Use 1 cup sour instead of sweet milk if you prefer, and use 1 teaspoon soda in place of ½ teaspoon, changing the baking powder to 2 instead of 4 teaspoons.

Orange Drop Cookies

2 tbsps. grated orange rind, 4 tbsps. fat, 1 c. sugar, 2 eggs, 2 c. sifted flour, 3 tbsps. orange juice, 4 tsps. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt.

Cream together grated orange rind, butter and sugar; add well beaten eggs and orange juice, flour, baking powder and salt which have been sifted together. Drop batter by spoonful onto a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F. to 400 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes.

Highways and bridges developed by King Louis XIV and Napoleon are still in service in France.

The cause of the sinking of the Maine never has been discovered.

Low Point Meals for Guests

By ALICE DENHOFF

...may be rationed a bit now...not and most of us will ...to do some entertaining be...the usual cup of coffee with ...or cake. By using ad...ase of low-point dishes and ...careful preparation and ...ning it is possible to have a ...tasty dinner that should ...the most fastidious.

If the rest of the meal is to be a fish dish as the main course, try treating the family and guests to a hearty soup. And if the attic holds grandma's painted soup tureen why not put it back to work and trade out the soup just as grandma used to do, right at table!

Bean Soup

For six portions of a really satisfying soup soak ½ cup dried navy beans overnight in cold water. Drain. Add a cup cold water and simmer until beans are tender, adding more water as liquid cooks away. Fry 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, and ½ cup sliced celery in 2 tablespoons of fat until slightly browned. Add to beans, when tender, together with one cup tomato pulp, one cup coarsely cut cabbage, one cup cooked, pecan macaroni and one package aspic salad gelatin. Simmer half an hour, season and serve with grated Parmesan cheese.

A well-made curry is always a welcome dish and if it is made from leftover cooked meat, it is a pocketbook as well. For an excellent curry, slice an onion and cook in 3 tablespoons drippings or other fat. Add 6 cups sliced apples or green tomatoes, cover and cook until tender. Add 3 cups chopped cooked lamb, veal, beef or chicken and heat thoroughly. Should mixture become too thick, thin it slightly with meat broth, gravy or water. Season to taste with curry powder and salt. Serve with steamed, cooked rice.

Paprika Liver

A well made liver dish provides good eating plus much nutritional value, and this recipe is no exception. Melt a tablespoon fat. Add a sliced onion, cook until yellow and transparent, remove and set aside. Scald one pound sliced pork liver, beef, pork or lamb liver. Remove membrane, sprinkle with salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, roll in one egg diluted with tablespoon water, roll in 1-3 cup flour. Place in skillet and brown on both sides. Add 2 tablespoons paprika, cooked onion and one cup sour cream or one cup tomato sauce, cook slowly 15 to 20 minutes, or until tender and there you have a delicious dish of paprika liver.

Prexie Basketball Team Lacks Outstanding Star, but Looks To Good Season; 52 Players Report

Two years ago, Gene Shellhorn was Mr. Big in Marion Harding basketball, last season Dick Mulvaine took his place alongside the best athletes in Marion scholastic history by breaking practically every N. C. O. record imaginable, but this year, your guess is as good as Prexy Coach Dewey Boyher's as to who, if anybody, will carry on the fine marks of outstanding court individuality.

Yet the Presidents are not doped to experience a bad season during 1943 and 1944, even with the absence of a true star. Instead, Harding will rely on general "team" play.

Coach Boyher and his assistant, Joe Petrich, should not have many faults to find in regard to the '43-'44 Prexies when the call went out for cage tryouts at the school gymnasium last week, boys from all three classes responded heartily, in fact as enthusiastically as ever before. At the latest count, 52 Harding seniors, juniors and sophomores were working out in preliminary practices at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school.

Of course, at least half of these lads will "get the ax" before long, probably the latter part of this week or early next. Drills will begin to increase in tempo next week with the opening Delaware Wilbs game scheduled for Dec. 3 at the Edison gym.

Gridders Now Out

The arrival of numerous footballers into the Prexy cage camp this week replenished the roster and provided it with what may be called the foundation of the team. Coach Petrich also put in his first appearance at practice this week, following completion of his chores as football line coach.

Included on the Chief Executive squad are six lettermen from last year's varsity squad, carryovers from last season's junior varsity outfit, and many hopefuls from the junior high school ranks. The lettermen are Stewart Young, Chuck Fazio, Rex Kilbourn and Bob Virden, seniors, and Fritz Guy and Elvin Beach, juniors. All these boys, with the exception of Guy, were gridders this fall.

Of the emblem-wearers, Young, Fazio and Kilbourn have seen the most action in varsity competition. Young and Fazio started most of last year's games while Kilbourn got his share of playing toward the end of the season. Guy, as a sophomore last year, started a few games, was reasoned even more in the central district tournament, and thus rates as a sure regular and mainstay this campaign.

There is not a Shellhorn or Mulvaine among the lettermen, as far as can be determined at this early stage, but all have had ample experience and promise to operate as an effective unit on the court this winter.

From Reserve Squad

From the reserve squad of 1942 are such potential starters as Howard Williams, Jim Askew, Norman Dillinger, Marshall Zuck, Don Schaadt, Jim Burgess, and Bob Lee, all juniors. These cagers did not engage in many interschool clashes last year but were constantly working out with the varsity team and are expected to be ready to "go" this year.

Coach Boyher said he would maintain a JayVee team this year in order to give the sophomores and other first year men much-needed experience. Few Prexy foes are expected to have reserve

Don't Miss This

Anyone who plans to witness the rip-roaring tag team match that Lee Fishbaugh has cooked up for the Armory on West Church street tonight had better be in top-flight vocal condition because there's bound to be plenty of cheering, booing, and what have you for such a thrill-packed card.

A couple of well-liked, ringwise Canadians, Franky Hart and Rene LaBelle will be partners again for the tag team and they will have a rough evening to contend with since Angelo Martinelli of New York and Gil LaCross, the Toledo welder, will be their opponents. Both members of the latter team can either "fight clean or rough" according to promoter Fishbaugh. Even the preliminary, which matches Don Serio of New York City and Joe Perona, the husky Bostonian, will have no weak spots as far as entertainment goes. Serio is a newcomer but is said to be competent and tough on the mat. The prelim will start proceedings at 8.30.—Adv.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Texas always does things in a big way, so it's no surprise to learn that the Lone Star state will present two championship games next week . . . Besides the Texas-Texas Aggies tilt for the Southwest conference crown Thanksgiving day, there'll be a "service title" clash between the Randolph Field Ramblers and the Southwestern Louisiana Institute trainers at San Antonio, Nov. 27 . . . when the Marines took Anglo Bertelli from Notre Dame, they also took ten first-rate basketball players, but coach Moose Krause still has a pair of 6-foot, 7-inch sophomore forwards and a lot of other good material.

Pigskin Pickins

(Ohio State vs. Michigan)
The junior Bucks
Have had lots of luck;
But they'll probably wish
They'd never played Mich.

(Harvard vs Boston College)

Havard's traditions will be lost on the Doherty dozen that plays for Boston.

(Texas Christian vs. Rice).

T. C. U. is no sensation and will not Rice to this occasion.

(North Carolina vs. Duke)

Last week the Tar Heels toppled Penn; they won't do a thing like that again.

Observation Post—The Oklahoma football players, who upset Missouri recently after receiving farewell kisses from a bevy of beautiful coeds when they left for the game, now insist they won't play unless the girls repeat the act before each game . . . That shows the difference between this year's football and the old fashioned variety—when the boys wouldn't play unless they received their pay envelopes first.

Scrap Collection—Verne Atkins of Youngstown, O., apparently is out to set some sort of a record in local boxing circles. He has been knocked out in his last four starts . . . The hockey rangers are bidding $20,000 for an experienced defenseman in hopes of winning just one game . . . Nolly Sams, dean of South Carolina sports writers, still can outdo the younger fellows at picking football winners. Last week he not only called North Carolina over Penn but picked Ohio State to beat Illinois "in a thriller."

Left Out—The Marines, always proud of being first, have come up with another "first" according to Sgt. Hy Hurwitz, former Boston sports writer . . . One team is a new league in the South Pacific uses an infield of three southpaws and one right hander . . . The wrong-side throwers are first baseman Elmer Crue, a former Three-Eye leaguer, second baseman Shelby Farnsworth and third baseman Stanley Antich . . . The right-hander who was left is Pfc. Vernon Magers, who plays shortstop.

ZIVIC MAY FIGHT LAST TIME TONIGHT

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Nov. 18 — Flat-nosed Fritzie Zivic has averaged better than one ring appearance a month in his 13 years of trading punches, but he may put on the gloves for the last time tonight.

The 31-year-old former welterweight champion took his selective service screen test in Pittsburgh Sunday, and if the army accepts him there's little prospect of his returning to action after a year or two in service.

Fritzie keeps a 10-round date in Akron's armory with George "Red" Doty of Hartford, Conn., only five days after dropping a well-booed split decision to Young Jake LaMotta in Madison Square Garden. Tonight's scrap is Zivic's 16th of the year and the 179th of his long career.

The Zivic-Doty engagement, coupled with the appearance of Marine Corporal Barney Ross, Guadalcanal hero and also a former welterweight titlist, promises to produce one of Akron's biggest fight crowds in many years.

The gloves which Ross wore in winning the welterweight title from Jimmy (Baby Face) McLarnin in 1935 will be auctioned off to the highest war bond bidder.

Production of sweet potatoes in the United States in 1943 is well over 70,000,000 bushels.

Irish, Hawks Due To Settle Question of Top Grid Team

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—Fortunately for Frank Leahy and Lt. Don Faurot the social dictum that it's not polite to point doesn't hold true in football circles.

So the coaches of Notre Dame and the Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks, the nation's top-ranking teams, are hard at it this week pointing their respective unbeaten and untied elevens for Saturday's showdown engagement.

The result should establish one or the other definitely as the country's greatest football team—college or service. A crowd of 50,000 is expected to watch this unofficial championship battle at Notre Dame stadium.

Both teams have spotless records of eight consecutive victories. The Irish string, however, is far more impressive. It includes decisive triumphs over such front ranking teams as Georgia Tech, Michigan, Navy, Army and Northwestern while the Seahawk opposition has been of second rate variety.

Notre Dame, practically unanimous choice as the nation's No. 1 team, has rung up 312 points while holding its foes to 37.

The Seahawks, standing in No. 2 position in the latest Associated Press national poll, have trounced Illinois, Ohio State, Iowa State, Iowa, Missouri, Ft. Riley, Marquette and Camp Grant. Not a first rater in the lot. The Pre-Flighters have scored 235 points against the enemy's 82.

Notes from other midwest football camps.

Michigan, gunning for its first share in a conference championship since 1933, tested its defense yesterday against Ohio State plays. The Wolverines may face the Buckeyes without their star halfback, Elroy Hirsch, who was still on the sidelines with injuries.

As Coach Paul Brown brushed up State's offense, the team physician announced all players were in sound condition and able to play Saturday.

Although not disposed to under-rate Illinois, Northwestern's Wildcats appeared listless in their preparations for Saturday's encounter. They were unimpressive in an offensive drill. . . At Champaign fears were expressed that halback Eddie Bray, Illinois' leading ball carrier, might miss the Northwestern game. He became ill Tuesday night and missed practice yesterday.

ONE POUND OVER LIMIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery was one pound over the class limit as he wound up training in Stillman's for his 15-round title battle with Beau Jack Friday night in Madison Square Garden. Monty weighed 136 and Jack 135½ after their final stiff drills.

MARRIED
Rickety Bridge, Kan.: Wedding bells will ring on Saturday for Lucille Twistle and Sgt. Luther Dewberry, who have been engaged since 1937. "Just swept her off her feet since I got to shaving with Treet Blades," confides Luther. "Should have done it long ago!"

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Billy Hillenbrand, the famed "Evansville Express," hasn't been entirely forgotten at Indiana university but not even Billy in his hey-day came up with any more prodigious football feats than those of one Robert James Hoernschemeyer—the current 18-year-old freshman sensation of the Big Ten.

Instead of living on the past and being forced to speculate on what Bo McMillin's Hoosiers might have done if Hillenbrand hadn't been called to the army, Indiana's football fans find themselves each Monday with new tales of Hoernschemeyer's prowess.

Runs And Passes

He scored the touchdown and kicked the extra point that gave Indiana a tie with Miami (Ohio). He ran and passed Northwestern dizzy and it was not until exhaustion forced him from the game in the last quarter that the highly favored Wildcats finally put the game on ice. He ran wild against Wabash and against Nebraska he tossed six touchdown passes. Iowa managed to slow him up but even then he scored Indiana's only touchdown. And more recently he passed and ran Wisconsin ragged.

Anative of Cincinnati, Hoernschmeyer, who is best known to his teammates as "Hunchy" or "Hunch," has been playing football since he was in the fifth grade. He started as a guard and tackle on the St. Teresa parochial grade school team at Cincinnati but shifted to the backfield when he was in the eighth grade.

After playing on the freshman and reserve teams at Elder high in Cincinnati he made the varsity in his junior year and scored 42 points. In his senior year his 76 points set a new school record. He smashed another school mark by scoring all 21 points in Elder's victory over Withrow high of Cincinnati.

He's been throwing passes since

BOB HOERNSCHEMEYER
Famed as Passer

he was in the eighth grade and "Hunchy" gives the credit for his passing prowess to Walter Bartlett, his high school coach and a one-time opponent of Bo McMillin.

"Hunchy" says his biggest thrill was when he scored 15 points in five minutes last year to lead Elder to a 28-0 victory over Purcell high.

Fatherless since he was 13, Bob and his brothers—one a stepbrother—have taken care of their mother and two sisters. The stepbrother—Walter Delaney, formerly a newspaper man on the Cincinnati Enquirer—now is a corporal in the army. His brother William is an aviation cadet at Washington university of St. Louis. Bob's two sisters, Mary, 16, and Stella, 14, are students in Seton high in Cincinnati.

But football isn't "Hunchy's" only sport. He played guard for two years on the Elder basketball team and he plans to go out for the Indiana hardwood team if he isn't called to military service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—W[illiam] of the New York Yankees baseball club, winners of the World series, received $204 [illegible] and the defeated St. Louis Cardinals $136,841.81 as their share of the total receipts of the five games series this fall. Commissioner K. M. Landis announced today.

The world series pari-mutuel share represented 70 per cent of the players' portion of the [illegible] receipts which amounted to $205,784. This total included $[illegible]000 received for broadcasting rights to the series and the film receipts. Attendance at the four games totaled 277,312.

WARTIME FACTS about anti-freeze

Restrictions on raw materials needed in the war program have affected supplies of all brands of anti-freeze. However, enough anti-freeze of the types approved by the War Production Board should be available to meet the needs of motor car operators, if there is no overbuying or hoarding—the main causes of shortages of anti-freeze.

▶ Motorists should take good care of the anti-freeze they can get. They should see to it that the cooling system is thoroughly tight, so that anti-freeze won't leak out. They should have the fan belt, hose connections, cylinder head gaskets and radiator carefully serviced, and should have adjustments and replacements made as needed.

If you saved anti-freeze from last winter, the solution may need strengthening for another winter's protection. It is possible to bring it up to strength with War Emergency "Zerone." Consult your dealer who handles Du Pont anti-freeze. He has a Du Pont protection chart which shows how much to add.

DU PONT ANTI-FREEZE PROTECTS TWO WAYS AGAINST FREEZING AND RUST

War Emergency "Zerone"—an ethanol product—temporarily taking the place of regular "Zerone," War Emergency "Zerone" will give you good wartime anti-freeze, anti-rust protection at low cost. Price $1.40 a gallon.

"Zerex"—Du Pont's premium-priced anti-freeze, made from ethylene glycol. It is non-evaporating. One filling lasts all winter. "Zerex" is anti-acid, as well as anti-rust. Price $2.65 a gallon.

Remember—during this war period your dealer may not always be able to furnish the particular brand of anti-freeze you want—when you want it.

FREE! New book, "Take Care of Your Cooling System" gives special, money-saving tips every motorist should know. Just send a penny postal card to Room 2496, Nemours Bldg., E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (Inc.), Wilmington, Delaware.

Former Bucyrus Coach Winning Recognition

BUCYRUS, Nov. 18 — Former high school basketball coach, Eldon Armbrust, now chief petty officer in the U. S. coast guard, is receiving considerable recognition in his work as physical director at the coast guard training station at Battle Creek, Mich.

A full page feature of Chief Armbrust's activity appeared in a recent copy of Coast Guard magazine.

The article carries a picture of Chief Armbrust and also the Armbrust's year old son, David.

Mrs. Armbrust was formerly Jeannette Krumbach of Bucyrus.

800,000 Hunters To Take Field Friday

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18—Approximately 800,000 Ohioans will take to the fields during the hunting season opening Friday, despite the number participating in the war effort and a shortage of shotgun shells, Conservation Commissioner Don Waters estimated today.

Waters said about 815,000 hunting licenses would be issued this year, 100,000 less than in 1942, but that farmers and members of their families who are permitted to hunt on their own lands without licenses would swell the hunting total to 850,000.

Waters attributed the drop in license sales to the number of hunters now in the armed services, those in war work which prevented them from getting afield, a shortage of shotgun shells and gasoline rationing.

He urged persons with shells to share with them with hunters and farmers to permit as many persons as possible to enjoy the sport.

Ben Waters and Highway Director Hal Sours said no "road blocks" would be established by highway patrolmen and conservation enforcement officers to check on hunters' bag limits.

The season on rabbits, pheasant, Hungarian partridge and ruffed grouse opens at 11 a. m., eastern standard time, Friday.

The bird season continues through Dec. 4 and the rabbit season through Jan. 11.

SHOE SHINERESSES

By The Associated Press

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Newest note in the manpower shortage here is the use of women bootblacks. Manager Burton Meyer of a local shoe repair shop has hired several girls to shine shoes and says they do a better job because they "take more pride in their work."

YANKS GET QUARTERS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—The New York Yankees aren't going to be chilled out of any spring training session next spring. The management of the World champions yesterday completed arrangements to train in Atlantic City with permission to use the National Guard armory in case of bad weather. Last spring the Yanks worked at Asbury park where no suitable indoor facilities were available.

Manual training as a school subject originated in Finland in 1858.

Quill pens were first used in the sixth century.

PASSER

"Hunchy" has a burning ambition to be a major league baseball player. And that's not beyond the realm of possibility.

In his last two years in high school he hit .360 and .390 on the varsity team and last year he hammered the ball at a .417 clip during the American Legion national junior baseball tournament in which his team reached the semi-finals.

After every football game he calls his mother and invariably her first question is: "are you hurt?" He stands 5 feet 11½ inches and weighs 183.

The amazing thing to Indiana fans is that "Hunchy," despite a lack of collegiate experience, has been able to match Hillenbrand's feats with what actually is a rather weak supporting cast. Indiana has been forced to rely largely on freshmen and 4-F's but most observers say that his passing and kicking leaves nothing to be desired.

Opponents and coaches say that he probably runs harder on a straight line than Hillenbrand. Bo McMillin adds, however, that "Hunchy" isn't as shifty as Hillenbrand but that he will learn when he obtains more experience.

HAVE YOU A PET SNAKE?

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS—The Audubon Park zoo is short of snakes and has invited Orleanans owning pet pythons, rattlers or friendly little garden snakes to turn them in. George Douglass, zoo superintendent, blames the shortage on the rapid mortality of snakes in captivity and the fact that hunters and fishermen are not bringing in the reptiles as they normally do.

PREXIE

squad. Let's not take charge of the Jayvees as he did last year.

On an average, the current Prexie boy stands five to six feet eight inches in height, although there are a couple of husky guards on the squad. Farnsworth is five feet 11 inches tall at the tender age of 17 years. Young and Kilbourn both approximate the six-foot mark.

Last year, the Prexies encountered considerable trouble in controlling the backboards. Mals one schoolboy he was tall, and not have the jumping necessary to hold his own under the basket against opponents of corresponding height. Faced a week on rebounds when he was used in that role last season and promises to show improvement for the 18-game Prexie card which, set to get under way in three weeks.

Tuesday the squad held a drill at the Armory on West Church street but last night switched back to Edison, where rehearsals will be held for the remainder of the season. All home games will be staged in the Edison "cigar-box."

BUYING SENDS LIST HIGHER

Recovery Develops on Selective Basis as Market Appears Oversold.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Buying support returned to the stock market today on a selective basis with favorites generally recovering fractions and scattered specialties several points.

The principal bullish prop, as in the preceding session, was another batch of year-end dividends. The fact The Associated Press 60-stock average had dropped to its lowest mark since last April also brought the idea the list may have been oversold. Tax selling remained as a retardent and commitments were kept relatively light pending possibly important international developments which, Wall Street felt, were just around the corner.

Prices stiffened here and there after a mixed opening but losers were plentiful near the fourth hour and dealings slow.

Performers on the upside included American Distilling, Schenley, U S Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, American Can, Westinghouse and Standard Oil (N J) Occasional retreaters included International Harvesters and Douglas Aircraft.

Chesapeake & Ohio had the benefit of the interstate commerce commission authorization for the purchase of 60,000 more shares of Wheeling & Lake Erie common.

CAMOUFLAGE

By The Associated Press

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—At sunrise the other morning the police department and nearby Peterson field officials received dozens of calls from people who reported an airplane had crashed on Pike's Peak. Investigation by use of field glasses disclosed, however, that light shining on an ice field on the east slope of the peak was reflected in such a way it gave the appearance of airplane wreckage.

WHEAT, RYE JUMP MORE THAN A CENT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—Wheat and rye jumped more than a cent in a strong and active market today, all bread cereal contracts moving to new highs for the season. Heavy demand for wheat from millers and distillers was reported in the cash market with shipping sales from here totaling close to 300,000 bushels.

Profit-taking in wheat was heavy after the December contract hit $1.62, and prices receded from their last levels. Some selling came from houses with southwestern connections. Rye advanced on a boost of 4 to 6 cents per sack of 100 pounds in rye flour at New York. Resting orders to sell held oats in check and barley was relatively easy throughout the session.

such signal and outstanding service in supplanting incompetency and demanding honest and faithful service."

At Cleveland, the governor announced headquarters for his campaign would be set up in Columbus "in a few weeks."

He said no campaign manager had been selected but Don Power, his former secretary, would be "very active" in the drive for the nomination. At the same time he characterized as "hogwash" speculation that Power's recent resignation indicated a split between the governor and his former law partner.

He said his address before the National Association of Real Estate Boards expressed some of the fundamental policies and philosophies which will be stressed during the campaign. He declared against post-war deficit financing of government and said a high rate of industrial production must be continued to meet the federal debt burden.

"The mystery is where they came from," said Gander, "

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE WAS something in my father's voice as he said that he would need me for something most important which quickened my pulses. He is never given to exaggeration, and the fact that he had thus stressed the aid I was to give him, told me that something strenuous and exciting was in the offing.

But I also knew there was no use asking him a single question about what I was to do. He is a single track mind, if ever there was one, and for the moment he was concentrating on what I had learned from Carolyn. It behooved me to begin my story promptly.

Father Was Right

"You were right in your surmise," I told him. 'Carolyn has confessed everything. She was married to Rico, but Marion was not married to his friend, and Marion managed things so that she was able to spirit Carolyn away almost immediately after the ceremony."

"I would have expected that of Marion," he said, with relief, as well as approval, in his voice. "She is exactly like her mother in resourcefulness and efficiency. But I think you'd better start at the beginning, and tell me everything Carolyn said."

The recital didn't take long, for I talked as rapidly as possible, and my father did not interrupt me by a single question or comment. But when I had finished, he looked at me keenly.

"There's something you think should be done," he said. "What is it?"

Another Personal

"Yes, there is," I told him. "I thought it might be a good thing if we put in one of those newspaper personals, telling her in some way she'd understand that Carolyn has confessed, and that the collegiate gangster has broken the bargain he must have made with her when she left college, that he would not tell of Carolyn's marriage. The news might bolster the resolution she expressed in that code message she sent to me by the waiter, Crump, telling us she realized that she had been wrong in her self-imposed sacrifice."

"A splendid idea," my father agreed heartily. "But, of course, you know that you will have to concoct the personal. Will you have Mary's help?"

"I don't think so," I replied. "I remember that the personals were addressed to 'Jim' and signed 'Sam.' I really think that is all I need to know."

Suggests Start

"Then if you don't mind beginning at once, suppose you go over to your desk and get to work," he said. "Do you mind my being here, or would you rather be alone?"

"Of course I don't mind," I said emphatically. "But I do wish you in your turn would stretch out on the couch and relax a bit, even if you don't go to sleep."

"I think that's good advice," he said surprisingly, for he almost never naps. "I don't think I shall drop off, but remember, if I do, waken me as soon as you finish with the personal."

"I promise," I told him, for as Dicky says, "the old Medes had nothing on the Chief when it comes to making an edict or exacting a promise."

Spencer Naps

"Very good," he replied, and with no further word, walked to the couch, stretched himself upon it and closed his eyes. I longed to pull the afghan over him, but forbore, knowing his horror of being "fussed over," as he puts it. But he had given me the sensation of being alone with my work, which I needed, and shutting out everything else, I bent to the task of composing a personal to the address "Jim" which should convey our news to Marion.

At last, after many attempts, and much tearing up of paper, I managed to write one that seemed to me about 75 per cent of what I wanted, and with the feeling that I really could not better it, if I kept on for hours, I made a neat copy of it, and going over to the couch put my hand upon my father's wrist.

He wakened at once, and I smiled down at him.

"I have something which I think may pass muster," I told him. "But of course, you're the one to pass upon it."

He sat up and returned my smile.

"If it suits you, I am sure it will suit me," he said. "Let's hear it."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Face and Teeth

I am surprised and pleased to have an eminent dental authority come out in the open and state a proposal that I have long held. Every time I expressed my opinion, however, all the dentists and teeth straighteners jumped on me so that I thought I must be wrong. Now I have, I am happy to say, some backing.

The gentleman who says this is Dr. Lehman Wendell, of Minneapolis, and he calls his article "A Prejudice To Be Shed."

Frederich the Great once said—"the greatest and noblest pleasure that we can have in this world is to discover new truths, and the next is to shake off old prejudices."

We have been told so long that the teeth determine the shape of the face, and make, for better functional action that few men in the street would deny it.

But here is what Dr. Wendell says: "One of the most preposterous of our prejudices is the theory which claims that the shape of the face determines the decision as to the shape of the artificial teeth. Thus a patient with a square face should be given square teeth; an oval face requires ovoid teeth and a tapering face tapering teeth."

The whole theory is sheer speculation and thoroughly unscientific and it will not bear analysis.

In a group of dentists an advocate of this theory brought forward a group of patients. He said he had already made up his mind what kind of faces each had and also what kind of teeth he was going to give them, but he would like his friends to look the group over and confirm his opinions.

It may be admitted that not all would agree on the size and hue of the teeth selected, but certainly they ought to come somewhere close to deciding whether the face was oval, square or tapering. Each man was to write down his opinion on a piece of paper. There was no agreement at all. Some pronounced a face oval, some square and some tapering. And they were all the same faces.

Here is another feature of the situation. I know a man of about fifty who has a jolly round face. I think everybody would agree it was round. His teeth, which are almost intact, look perfectly swell in that face. Yet when I first knew him a few odd years ago he had a teeth-tortured face. He was only 30 or so, and, as I remember it, he was a fine looking fellow and looked perfectly all right.

Now I suppose that when he was young and callow and cadaverous they had started to make a mint over and began some engineering work on his teeth, now would he have agreed to when he was the age he is?

Of course bad placement of teeth, a square jaw, are square, round or tapering face. But too much monkeying has certainly changed many a nice looking girl or boy into a pretty lopsided specimen.

Let your teeth alone—at least when you are young.

For Friday, Nov. 19

CLEAR THINKING and the results will be proof of the pudding. Experience is a good corrective and a valuable supplement to good judgment and unfortunate errors. But it will be well to pursue a policy and strategy of your own alone, since the good will or support of superiors or persons in high places may be withheld although relatives or older friends may be kindly disposed. Also there is a chance for loss of funds or credit, either through bad judgment, unwise outlay or extravagance. Despite action and thrift should win out.

Those whose birthday it is should be ready to decisively take advantage of a sudden and unforseen opportunity for advancement and financial gain by the use of clever, shrewd and ingenious methods and action in which the maximum individual effort is brought to bear on strange or extraordinary situations. Family elders or relatives may be kindly disposed even to the extent of bequests or inheritance. Take no unjustifiable risks and refrain from extravagance or prodigality with funds.

A child born on this day should have exceptional creative talents backed up by energy, stability of character and industry winning popularity and success in an exceptional occupation.

Turkey To Be Scarce for Thanksgiving Day

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—Tom Turkey, the big bird that is symbolic of the holiday dinner, will be missing from many of the nation's dinner tables on Thanksgiving.

Although this year's turkey crop is only slightly smaller than in 1942, trade experts said today wartime factors have created a unique situation and many large cities, and most of the eastern states, will find the turkey supply limited.

However, they offered a word of cheer to the housewives who will be unable to buy a turkey for the Thanksgiving day spread. The supply of chickens is plentiful and turkeys will be easier to obtain for Christmas and New Year's. They also reported that the supply of ducks and geese was only fair.

The 1943 turkey crop about one-tenth, or approximately 36,000,000 pounds, have been consigned to men in the armed forces. But the demand for turkeys have been heavier this year, tradesmen said.

You can eat your cake and have it, too—If you invest your CHRISTMAS savings in WAR BONDS. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.
